Continuing a Tradition

is no easy task. With tradition come legacies that must be addressed. Our graduation marks the culmination of our aspirations and efforts to fulfill an established standard of excellence.

We began as eager, naive freshmen in 1986. Through the years we have come to expect the best, not only from others, but from ourselves, as well. From academics to athletics, and everywhere in between, this continuing tradition of excellence has left an indelible mark on every aspect of the school.

We have brought home championships in virtually every sport. This class has the distinction of having twenty four National Merit Simi-Finalists, the largest number in the school’s history. Members of this class have been a part of the award-winning music, art, business, cosmetology and industrial technology programs. We have reached state levels and won championships in Debate, Mock Trial competitions, Chess Tournaments and Drama Entries. Our Odessy of the Mind group won accolades and recognition in its very first competition.

All very impressive we think. All committed to excellence in preparing us for the real world outside the protection of high school. As we move toward new frontiers, East’s tradition of excellence will continue to guide us, continue to encourage us to reach for the stars.

East began the 1989-90 school year with a new principal, Mr. James J. Gallagher, a home-grown product of Cherry Hill. He entered the Cherry Hill school system when it was still Delaware Township. Graduating from Cherry Hill High School West in 1967, he then spent four undergraduate years at La Salle University, his only time completely away from Cherry Hill.

He started teaching biology at Cherry Hill East in 1971, quickly rising to become head of the department, and eventually an assistant principal. When Mr. Anthony Cost was promoted to Deputy Superintendent of Schools in 1988, Mr. Gallagher was named acting principal, receiving his permanent appointment as principal in June 1989.

A man of many varied interests*, Mr. Gallagher plays golf and is a family man with an eight-year-old daughter named Kristie. They own a 5½ acre farm in Chatsworth where they currently have one horse and two ponies. The entire family participates in Mr. Gallagher's favorite hobby: horseback riding. They all ride competitively (Kristie has been riding since she was eighteen months old!). Mr. Gallagher loves this sport because it is a sport for the whole family to enjoy together. "It is almost a way of life," he says.

Our new principal is a likable, amiable man who is extremely easy to talk to. He is also a highly visible principal: students can see him walking through the halls during the day, chatting and relating with the student body.

Mr. Gallagher says that when presented with situations as a principal, he tries to keep in mind his own child in the same situation, and 99.9% of the time this leads him to a correct decision. The message he wants to convey to the students of East is one of pride. There's "a lot to be proud of," he says, and he wants this to be a prevalent theme as he leads East into the 1990's.

The Foreign Exchange Program offers students from abroad the unique chance to experience high school in America. While living with “host” families in Cherry Hill, these students attend a full year at East. In addition to receiving an exceptional education and practicing their English, they experience American culture. This year, six seniors, Lars E. Andersen, Malin Jonsson, Thomas Larason, Yaron Nahmias, Josefin Saez-Ilobre, and Stephane Ratte, from Norway, Sweden, Israel, Spain, and Canada have enrolled in the Exchange Program. For over ten years, charitable organizations such as the Cherry Hill Rotary Club have sponsored these students; provided housing, and arranged trips for them. This year, the group visited such cultural centers as Philadelphia, New York, Washington D.C., Boston, and Kansas City. During school, these students take courses ranging from U.S. History I to Air Force R.O.T.C. They also participate in a variety of extra-curricular activities such as cross country track, soccer, and the chess team. They are eager to sample a multitude of subjects and activities since their previous schools were small and offered virtually none of the same opportunities. The Foreign Exchange Program also allows these students to sample American life. Prior to their trip, some had never eaten cafeteria food, watched cable T.V., or visited a mall. Lars E. Andersen stated that the Exchange Program “allows me to receive a more diverse education than I would have received in Norway.”
Money, money, money... heaps of quarters, piles of dimes, mounds of nickels... wads of ones, rolls of fives, folds of tens... jingling cashboxes filled to overflowing...

Today, I have decided to be prudent, cautious, economical-close fistled. For once, I am not going to spend any money at school. I began by resolutely ignoring the colorful signs plastered over the halls, advertising delicious bargains in all kinds of goodies. Unfortunately, the athlete at the donut table spied me slithering past her. Alas, those two treacherous quarters jumped right out of my pocket. Suddenly, I held a sticky donut.

Munching thoughtfully, I proceeded down E-wing. Rounding the corner, I detected more pastries on the Amnesty International dessert cart. Thinking fast, I hurried past, showing a new-found interest in the tile floor.

But a scrumptious Danish thrust under my nose halted me in my tracks. Grudgingly (but secretly pleased), I purchased two more. After all, it was truly a worthy cause; to heighten awareness of human rights, not to mention my hungry stomach.

Well, I'd have to be on my toes now if I wanted to be penny-pinching. As I tip-toed away, I bumped into a Junior Achiever. Somehow, I became the proud owner of a new locker mirror. With the remaining change, I gladly forced myself to buy a soda from a Cosmetology student.

By the end of the day, I had supplemented my morning purchases with the omnipresent M&M's, a Spanish Club marker, Student Congress lollipops, Interact Club chocolate covered pretzels, Korean Club soft pretzels, Class of 1991 shorts, an East sweatshirt, deely boppers, orchestra candy, a swim team pointsetta plant, a red pencil with a monstrous lip shaped eraser inscribed "Kissy, Kissy", and a wonderful Eidolon yearbook for only $38.

How did the downfall of a tenacious, stingy student come about? I have decided that I should be darn proud to see my hard earned money work for the school. Why, with my numerous purchases I have contributed to cultural, social, economical, and athletic efforts. That means I am a Renaissance Person! Therefore, although my wallet becomes lighter every day, I'm a veritable millionaire when wealth is measured by candy, sweatshirts, and sparkly deely boppers.

By the way, would you like to buy a beautiful new cougar pen for the Yearbook?

Champion of Educational Excellence

Beloved Friend of East High School

Barbara (Bobbie) Richterman
November 4, 1989
His voice goes from a shout to a whisper in a split second. He peppers his speech with obscenities. He is angry, he is compassionate, he is frustrated. David Toma is a one-man war against alcohol and drug abuse. David Toma is a phenomenon. Using horror stories of death, blindness, brain damage, and deformed future babies as chilling examples, David Toma reaches into the soul with his emotional exhortations on responsibility and respect. He cares, and as a result, is making inroads bringing thousands of drug and alcohol abusers to the threshold of help.

This former Newark police officer made Cherry Hill East his latest stop on his cross-country crusade tour. For three straight hours, he talked to a packed gym of students and staff about everything from God to Satanism to family values and self esteem. He related personal anecdotes to drive his point home. David Toma has a gift, the power of conviction that enables him to dent the scourge which is sweeping our communities. However, not only can Toma deliver but he has the empathy to listen and direct the proper help. With this caring human being on the side of the kids, there will be a difference in thousands of young people’s lives.

On the last Monday in October, East was the arena for David Toma. All classes were geared to the bolstering of his message and the impact that it conveyed, as topic related discussions were encouraged. The library annex became an open forum of support people who were there for any student who felt the need to confide, relate or simply listen.

It was an education in itself and that is what school is all about.
ODYSSEY, n. 1. An extended adventurous wandering. 2. An intellectual or spiritual quest.

Well, they may not do much wandering (unless you count late night trips to Channel to get some last minute touch-up paint or some extra balsa wood), and we can’t be sure about the extent to which their goals are spiritual (after all, when girls are teaching boys the rudiments of putting on make-up in a school bus as it hurtles along Interstate 295 en route to the rigors of regional and state competitions, who can say for certain just what darkness does lurk in the hearts of men), but we can be certain of this: their work is intellectually challenging, and it does constitute an adventure.

"They" are the member of East's Odyssey of the Mind team, a select group of highly motivated students who participate in the long-range planning and execution of problems set up each year by the OM national committee. With the right combination of luck, talent, and determination, a team can wind up competing on the international level. While many of our students at East have had some involvement with OM in grade school, we have only begun to field teams on the high school level during the past two years — and already, in true East fashion, we’ve sent two groups of intrepid warriors to the New Jersey State Finals — where both received special citations for creative problem solving.

That the students themselves initiated the formation of East’s team should come as no surprise. After all, the key to success in this venture is the ability to combine independence with ingenuity. Indeed, the students must shoulder most of the load. While their coaches may offer guidance and help establish parameters for success, the responsibility for putting it all together finally rests with the OM team members themselves. Consequently, participation in the program celebrates not only brains and brawn (let's face it, moving those heavy sets up and down steep, narrow stairwells is no easy task), but also — and more importantly — cooperation and self-respect.

What do the “problem-challenges” entail? Anything from erecting a structure that can hold the greatest amount of weight to creating an ad campaign based on a Greek myth to rebuilding the wonders of the ancient world to designing a working robot — complete with emotions! Teams have eight minutes to make their presentation. It’s a one-shot deal, and the pressure is intense. Afterwards, they go into a room (coaches must wait outside) where a judge puts them through their paces in a sort of group version of The $100,000 Pyramid, testing their ability to be spontaneously brilliant. Word has it that they come out bloody but unbowed.

At East, the OM teams are coached by Mr. Matthew Carr and Mr. Stephen Schnell, those intrepid thespians and purveyors of intellectual acumen. Both gentlemen agree that their OM experience cannot be described adequately with mere words. But as Homer wrote, "That’s why God made big green sport jackets.”

Eidolon thanks High School West for the use of their Lion
When a freshman first enters high school, he may be slightly surprised at the number of principals in the school. “You mean there are six principals?” the wondering student asks. He is pleased to learn that each class has its very own vice-Principal. Mr. Edward Collins has been our vice-Principal for four years. Besides looking after us, Mr. Collins is responsible for evaluating and supervising the staff, data processing, attendance, the Basic Skills Program, and scheduling. But busy as he is, he always had time to attend all the senior class events.

Mr. Charles Fleischman, Mr. Leonard Terranova, and Dr. John O’Breza are the vice-Principals of the junior, sophomore, and freshman class, respectively. Their many duties include coordinating activities, transportation, student parking, athletics, evaluating the staff, and scheduling. They also oversee various programs. The Assistant Principal Mr. Richard Lacovara supervises the building and grounds, besides taking care of the budget. Most importantly, they are responsible for the students of their class.

Then, there is the man who is responsible for a school of approximately three thousand students and faculty members. He is Mr. James Gallagher, in his first year as our Principal; but everyone agreed that he has done an outstanding job in leading our school. With all of our fine leaders, we have once again enjoyed a memorable, successful year.
The school provides students with many special programs to assist and encourage them in the educational process. These programs include the Child Study Teams, the Special Education instructors, the Resource Program, the Speech Therapist, and the English As a Second Language teacher. They are the people who are ready to give students that little extra prod for encouragement.

Because everyone has his or her own needs and weaknesses, these educators help people to overcome their problems in order to receive the best education possible. The Speech Therapist aids those experiencing difficulty in expressing themselves verbally. She helps them develop a more comfortable style of speaking. The English As A Second Language instructor helps foreign students to overcome language barriers.

Whoever the student and whatever the problem, the Special Programs department is always ready to assist with their specialized skills and a warm smile of encouragement. They are special educators with a very special job.

Special Programs

The Individuals Who Teach Distinctive Studies.
The English department combines traditional values with neoteric ideas to provide students with a substantial education. A required four years of classic English courses for grammar, vocabulary, literature, and writing constitutes the fundamental knowledge. These classes emphasize extensive writing in order to build basic techniques and skills. Subsequently, the students can build on a strong foundation with the supplementary course offerings.

The Pilot Program is a unique course which allows juniors and seniors to improve their writing with the use of computers for editing their assignments. Another excellent supplementary course is Creative Writing. This class offers students the opportunity to experiment with different forms of writing through comprehensive practice. Living Theatre is also an English elective. Those interested in drama can learn to express themselves through writings done exclusively for the stage.

The result of the great variety of such classes is students who are extremely proficient in English. This is apparent in the award winning student publications such as Eastside, the school newspaper and Demogorgon, the fine arts and literary magazine. Moreover, the school boasts three recipients of the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) Award this year. They are Daniel Choi, Andrew Lawrence, and Ari Levine. These students exemplify the desire to maintain the standard of excellence which our school, with its fine programs, has fostered in all of us.

Something very special happened in the foreign language department this year. For the first time ever, a foreign language literary society was formed. Students from many different cultures and countries attended the society's first organizational meeting where they decided to create separate committees for publicity, writing, art, and layout.

Spanish teacher Mr. Craig E. Burgess and English teacher Mr. Roland LaVoie conceived the idea for a foreign language publication. Both had previous experience with publication: Mr. Burgess is the author of a volume of poems and Mr. LaVoie has written a book on model railroading.

Foreign Language /for' in lan' gwij/: n.

According to Mr. Burgess, the purpose of the society was to give students familiar with a language other than English an opportunity to publish their writings. "Passports" featured poems, short stories, and essays in a variety of languages. An English translation accompanied each selection.

The concept of a publication devoted entirely to foreign languages was a unique new idea, another example of the blending of innovation, tradition, and excellence.
Not native, unfamiliar speech or writing to an individual; of another country. These are the people that teach us about different cultures, accents, speech habits.
Just as the term "history" applies to more than just places, people, and times, the term "social studies" refers to more than just history. East's Social Studies department offers a wide selection of courses to interest nearly everyone. Along with the standard, straightforward history courses, there are courses in civics, international relations, and American law. There is another course which takes a radical approach to teaching history. The Humanities program uses a double period to explore history not only in the traditional aspects, but also through the literature and art of world cultures.

Just as exciting as the academic courses are the extracurricular activities involving social studies. From the World Affairs club and Model U.N., to the Debate Team and the Mock Trial Team (which placed third in the nation last year) the Social Studies department is one of the most vital parts of East.

Social Studies /so' sha el stud' ez/: n.

Jason Friedman and David Shane chairing the mock session of the Middle East Peace Conference introduce a guest speaker.

Mr. Stephen Schnell directs the discussion on the effects of colonization in Africa, with his 2nd period class.
Open to juniors and seniors at the accelerated and Honors levels, Humanities is an exciting two-period class focusing on non-Western cultures. Dr. Leslie Solomon, Mr. Stephen Schnell, and Mrs. Louise McDonnel conduct a discussion-oriented, highly-individualistic class. Students have the unique opportunity to study exotic regions like the Middle East, Soviet Union, Africa, and China through an interdisciplinary approach involving history, literature, religion and art. Since its conception two years ago, Humanities has grown into one of East's most dynamic courses. This year's forty-nine students will visit Princeton University and Washington, D.C., conduct a simulated Middle East peace conference, do extensive reading (often of translated novels and poems) and analytical writing, and design their own independent research project. To provide tangible perspective to subject matter, a multitude of guest speakers enlighten the class on topics as diverse as Christian doctrine, the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, and African artifacts. At the conclusion of each geographic unit, a group of student experts in that area present a cultural roundup, where students sample foreign foods, perform traditional customs and dances, watch fascinating and sometimes humorous films, and learn about present situations and issues. During a typical week, students might alternate among Dr. Solomon's literature discussions, Mr. Schnell's history lectures, and Mrs. McDonnell's slide presentations, as well as participate in a debate and take a current events quiz. Allowing students maximum freedom and guidance, Humanities emphasizes linking the past and the present through a knowledge of the world's different societies. Senior Andy Swers comments, "In Humanities, you explore interesting areas of the world neglected by normal high school classes."
Garnering prizes and awards the physical science department continues the school's well deserved reputation for academic excellence. All five students who entered the Philadelphia Science Council Competition won cash scholarships ranging from $100.00 to $600.00. Moreover, the Philadelphia section of the American Chemical Society invited East students to participate in the Chemistry Olympiad because of their extremely high scores on state science tests. One of these students became one of the twenty students from the entire country selected to participate in the National Olympiad. He then went on to represent the United States in the International Olympic Competition, which took place in East Germany.

Coached and encouraged by faculty members, the Chemistry and Physics teams participated in the New Jersey Science League Competition. The Chemistry I team finished first in the state out of 150 high schools. The Chemistry II team also finished first out of 89 schools. The Physics I team won second place out of 135 other schools.

The intellectually curious students have the opportunity to pursue their interests and bring honor to their school through the physical science department.

Physical Science

Science dealing with nonliving matter or energy

30 PHYSICAL SCIENCE
Biology /bɪ əl' jə/ : n.
the science that deals with the origin history, characteristics, habits, etc. of plants and animals

From dissecting fetal pigs to stuffing and mounting squirrels, from identifying exotic species of microorganisms to observing the mating rituals of Drosophila, the life sciences do not get any more exciting than in East’s biology department. After taking an introductory core course, students may choose from a vast array of electives. Depending on personal interests and career plans, students may learn to analyze athletic injuries, prepare for college studies in the allied health professions, practice collecting and preserving animals and plants, or construct terrariums under viable physical and environmental conditions. In addition, aspiring scientists may conduct individual projects in the Biology Research Club or hear first-hand information from guest speakers in the Biology Careers Club. The Biology I and II Science League Teams have consistently ranked near the top in state competitions. Most importantly, East’s biology department helps us understand and appreciate the everyday miracles of life.
Of all the excellent curricula at East, the area of perhaps the highest academic achievement is the mathematics department. In the twenty years of East history, East has consistently placed first in the region in the New Jersey Mathematics League and has produced numerous award winners in both state and national examinations. This continued excellence in mathematics can be credited, in part, to the balanced approach with which math is taught at this school. While "book knowledge" is taught, there are courses in practical math applications that try to involve every student in mathematics. However, a large part of these academic achievements is due to the competitiveness of the students combined with the co-operation of parents and teachers. These create an environment that is highly motivational to the students. A program such as this shows how East has continually updated its standards of teaching mathematics in accordance with the times.

Over the years, the Music Department at East has maintained a high degree of excellence. Its wide variety of instrumental and vocal groups such as East Singers, Belles of East, Orchestra, and Wind Ensemble, offer students the opportunity to not only refine their musical abilities, but also to perform in concerts both in and out of school. These various groups perform difficult music, ranging from Nelhybel to Tchaikovsky. Because of the dedication of skilled conductors, such as Mr. Bruce Yurko, Mrs. Lisa Wilson, and Mr. Eugene Magill, and of talented musicians, these groups have earned numerous honors. They have received “superior” ratings in various adjudications (Annapolis, New York City, Montreal, and Newport) and have performed in the Soviet Union, (Tallin, Moscow, and Leningrad). They also performed for President Reagan during his visit to Voorhees. In addition, these groups have been invited to Carnegie Hall and China. The school is also renowned for the large number of musicians who are selected annually through auditions to perform in such honor groups as All South Jersey, All-State, All-Eastern, and even National. Mr. Bruce Yurko states about the Music Department, “A splendid time is guaranteed for all.”

The department’s programs encourage excellence in the arts, through classroom activities and extracurricular projects.

Annually, the department participates in a state-sponsored fire prevention poster contest. Martina Choi, a student in Mrs. Sacca's Advanced Painting class, bested over twelve thousand other contestants from across New Jersey to win the competition.

Teaching Of Commerce, Trade, And Finance.

Business Education offers a diverse selection of courses valuable for the future business major or even those who wish to be able to type term papers easily. The Typing and Keyboarding classes provide groundwork in fundamental skills. Students with no previous experience can learn to type quickly and accurately. Students interested in computers may take the Computer Technology course in order to supplement their interest with a broader knowledge of computers.

The curriculum also contains courses in Retailing, Advertising, Merchandising, and Buying and Consumer Affairs. The varied offerings combined with an excellent faculty and superior facilities, develop the secretaries, managers, stenographers, bookkeepers, and business people of tomorrow.
With a wide variety of courses ranging from Fluid Power to Mechanical Drafting to Woodworking to Small Engines, the Industrial Arts program supplements the fine academic program at East. These highly diversified courses allow students to learn vocational skills such as basic home repair and woodworking while learning to use advanced equipment. Working in conjunction with the Cooperative Industrial Education program, these courses also provide students with valuable work experience. Thus, the Industrial Arts program aids students in developing a well-rounded education.

The goal of East's Health and Physical Education Department is to maximize the skill, fitness, and understanding of the student. Additionally, students are encouraged to have a positive attitude toward physical activity and fitness. This is achieved at the most basic level through the mandatory, once a day, full period physical education course. Students improve their skills in such sports as volleyball, soccer, and softball through practice and instruction. They are also introduced to activities such as weightlifting and self-defence. In addition, for a quarter of the year, the student is instructed in the classroom, with the curriculum depending on the student's grade level. The student can also take unique classroom electives such as well known Respect for Drugs special awareness program. To top off this diverse program, the athlete has access to a knowledgeable staff of sports trainers, training rooms, and a large well equipped weight room. Thus, working in conjunction with the regular academic program, the Health and Physical Education department helps maintain the ideal of a "sound mind, sound body."

"You want me to write copy on Media? But I don't know anything about it! What do they do anyway?" I cried.

"I don't know what they do. Just write something we can use," the faculty editor replied.

Perturbed, I left the office. How was I supposed to write about Media? I knew nothing about what they did. Well, I'd go down to the library to think and investigate.

Opening the door, I had to smile. Colorful posters, imposing busts, and bright signs decorated the library. Best of all, Mr. Miamidian was stacking new books along the long rows of shelves.

I approached Ms. Labowicz to ask for information for a report. Immediately, she led me to the reference section. As if by magic, several books on my topic appeared.

"Great, thanks!" I said, How easy that was! Next, I stepped into the audio visual room. Students were seated at the typewriters, typing away, while Ms. Hales sorted videotapes.

In the next room, a group of ladies were busily photocopying worksheets. Fascinated, I watched as they produced piles of paper. The whole place was a beehive of activity.

With this list of activities, I had more material than I could use. Result: one happy faculty editor!

The Guidance Department directs all students through their four years at East, meeting their educational, vocational, and personal needs, from freshman year to graduation and beyond. Counselors design personal schedules for each school year, assisting students in course selections. Each course load is tailor-made, compatible with the abilities and aspirations of each student, offering academic challenge and opportunities for intellectual growth. The department also aids upperclassmen in planning for college and careers. Sponsoring yearly Higher Education Nights, and visits from admissions representatives during the school day, the Guidance staff helps students through the college selection and admissions process.

Secretaries, counselors, and the department's director, Mr. James Sabin, all work together to provide much-needed assistance in charting students' futures beyond high school, into the world of work and careers. East's guidance counselors are there to listen, aiding students with personal problems.
We knew that Mr. Keith Haines loves Mickey Mouse, but not that he could be a klutzey Seymour wielding a machete against a man-eating plant.

We knew that Miss Peggy Beck loves Ophelia and poetry, but not that she could be a ditzy blonde devoured by a man-eating plant.

We knew that Mr. Steve Schnell is a master punster, but not that he could make "fast" work of a soft-shoe and sing as Mr. Mushnik.

We knew that Mr. Leonard Terranova was a strict disciplinarian, but not that he could love to inflict pain as the sadistic dentist Orrin Scrivello.

We knew that Mr. Robert D. Nation brings magic to the stage, but not that he could bring Audrey Two to life as a singer, actor, and director.

We knew that Mary Beth Quinlan, Mr. Bruce Yurko, and Mrs. Lisa Wilson have infinite patience with the students, but we didn’t know how generous they could be when we continually tried their patience and begged for their talents.

We knew it was a first — a faculty show, but what we didn’t know was how much fun it would be to see the teachers and staff learn from the students, to be linked with them in heart and soul.

We didn’t know it would be so special to see Mr. Jim Weiner as Bernstein and Skip Snip, Mrs. Roberta Reavey as Mrs. Luce, and Mr. Matthew Carr as Patrick Martin and the Customer.

We didn’t know how exciting it would be to see the Doo-wop trios of Mrs. Sandy Forchion, Mrs. Lyn Nec, and Miss Rosanne Rocchino; Miss Fran Lutner, Mrs. Betsy Schwartz, and Mrs. Catherine Tiefenthaler; and Mrs. Doris Cole, Mrs. Fielda Flemming, and Terry Pawlowski; or how zanny it would be to see the "prettiest" trio of all — Mr. Fred Belchikoff, Mr. Charlie Musumeci, and Mr. Mark Steele, complete with combat boots.

We didn’t have any idea that the teachers and staff had such verve, swerve, and nerve, or how we would enjoy seeing Mrs. Marion Brodeur, Mrs. Lillian Doron, Ed Frasceilla, Mrs. Marilyn Halpern, Mr. Jack Hoffner, Mrs. Bobbi Hopp, Officer Sandy Lazar, Mr. Glenn Nec, Mrs.

THAT'S SHOW BIZ!...

Joan Saltzer, Mr. Thomas Weaver, and Mrs. Helene Welde playing bag ladies, plants, zombies, street walkers, tourists, nuns, children, and winos on East's own stage.

We didn’t know what aches and pains were until we tried to equal the energy and athletics of our student counterparts in the cast.

We knew that East has exceptional students, but we didn’t know how helpful, supportive, caring, and warm they would be in their reception of this, our first faculty show.

If we had known, we might have had all this entertainment, excitement, fun, and joy even sooner!

FRESHMAN YEAR

Multiple choice: Choose the best answer on your Scan-Tron sheet. Make dark marks. Erase completely!

1) WHERE IS F203?
   a) Above F103.
   b) Next to the swimming pool.
   c) Both a) and b).
   d) None of the above.

Fresh out of Beck we came, clutching our color-coded mother-purchased notebooks in our nervous hands, wearing our squeaky-new sneakers. We fearfully climbed the steps of the student entrance, searching for familiar faces in a sea of upperclassmen. Half-lost, we scurried from earth Science to Western Civilization, occasionally peeking at those little maps our homeroom teachers had given us a few periods before.

2) WHAT HAPPENED AT THE END OF ROMEO AND JULIET?

a) They live happily ever after.
b) Juliet runs off with Odysseus.
c) They both die.
d) Don’t ask me. I never finished the book.

Gradually, we got into the swing of things. Some of us ran for class office. Others got ready for Spirit Week, decorating hallways and cakes. Hoping someday to become bilingual, we conjugated the subjunctive. On weekends, we joined our friends at the Cheeky Mall Food Court, and we laughed over Crocodile Dundee at the Marlton 8. We went to the Billy Joel concert; we bought the Spingstein live boxed set on compact disc. Some of us played fall sports, while others joined the numerous clubs after school. We tried to find the area of a trapezoid; we feasted on large fries in Cafeteria I. When winter rolled around, we prayed for snow. Before we knew it, Christmas break was at hand, and 1987 came, as we watched the ball drop in Times Square at a friend’s New Year’s party. We came back to school to face mid-terms. On Friday nights, we went to Lip Sync Night; later, we witnessed the Battle of the Bands. As spring approached, we watched Platoon win the Oscar for the Best Picture. We bought The Joshua Tree at Sam Goody. We asked that special someone to the Freshman Semi-Formal. We watched some of our classmates perform in the spring musical, Man of La Mancha.

On the TV news, we watched Mikhail Gorbachev unveil his new policy of openness, and heard of the Iran-Contra scandal brewing in Washington. In May, we suffered through the state High School Proficiency Test. For our freshman class trip, we screamed and played at Dorney Park. Later, some of us tried to cram an entire year’s work into one night, as finals ominously loomed over the horizon. And then it was over. We were moving up in the world of East; report cards were in the mail. No longer mere freshmen, we were ready to become sophomores.

3) AS A FINAL GRADE, IS AN 89.5 AN “A”?

a) No. A “B” is a “B”.
b) Yeah, why not?
c) Maybe, just maybe.
d) What, me worry?

4. WHEN SHOULD YOU KEEP YOUR HEADLIGHTS ON?

a) Between an hour before dusk and an hour before dawn.
b) Between an hour after dusk and an hour before dawn.
c) Between an hour before dusk and an hour after dawn.
d) Between an hour after dusk and an hour after dawn.

Somehow, East seemed smaller, more familiar, the second time around. Some of us rather confidently entered our first honors courses. We poured over Macbeth and analyzed the writing of the Constitution. The Driver’s Ed teachers showed graphic films of car crashes while we studied for our permit tests. On the front page of the morning paper, we read about the stock market crash, the Twins winning the World Series, and the signing of the INF treaty. We watched the Thespians stage The Spirit of America and selected our Homecoming Queen. At Thanksgiving, we cheered on the Cougars at the traditional East/West football game. We saw Three Men and a Baby at the movies while our parents watched The Last Emperor. As the first flakes of snow fell over the tri-state area, we awaited winter break and 1988.

5. IF YOU CROSS A MALE, BAR’-EYED, DUMPy-WINGED FRUIT FLY WITH A FEMALE, RED-EYED, VESTIGIAL-WINGED FRUIT FLY, WHAT IS THE GENOTYPE OF THE OFFSPRING?

a) RB:DV.
b) I don’t know. My flies escaped!
c) What exactly is this Punnett Square thing, anyway?
d) Yuck. Like, gross me out, dude!

As we entered 1988, we rushed through our homework in order to watch the Winter Olympics, held in Calgary, Alberta. We sent our prospective Cotillon dates carnations for Valentine’s Day and chose our class rings. After donning our newly purchased finery, we stepped into rented limousines for the big night. Outside of school, we shuddered at Fatal Attraction and snickered at
Class of '90

Good Morning Vietnam! We watched our upright, honest friends pick pockets in the Victorian England of Oliver!, the spring musical. Over frogs and fetal pigs, we all agreed that "The Wonder Years" was a great TV show. As the school year drew to a close and we reached the halfway point of our high school careers, we realized that we would no longer be underclassmen. We were to be juniors now.

b) WHAT DO TEACHERS DO OVER THE SUMMER, ANYWAY?

a) They become swimming pool managers.

b) They backpack across the Swiss Alps.

c) They gleefully make up new tests and quizzes for the next year.
for PSATs were looming near. (Some of us hoped to be pundits on etymology by then.) Meanwhile, Mr. Gallagher was named acting principal after Mr. Cost became the deputy superintendent. We then journeyed to the Verona of long ago with the Thespian Society's grand production of Romeo and Juliet. While Romeo was pining for Juliet, the superstar Cougars became Division champions in an undefeated season. Although unable to vote, we took an avid interest in the 1988 presidential campaign. George Bush routed Michael Dukakis at the polls to become President. As the holidays began, we busily made decorations after school for the annual FOP Rotary Christmas party at the Hyatt.

8. IF A, B, AND C ARE LENGTHS OF A TRIANGLE AND ANGLE C IS AN INCLUDED ANGLE OF THE SIDE HAVING LENGTHS A AND B, THEN:

a) Don't worry; this won't be on the SATs.

b) $C = A + B - 2AB \cos C$.

c) Help!

d) None of the above.

The news of the tragic bombing of Pan Am flight 103 dampened our holiday cheer. We made New Year's resolutions to start studying but then we promptly went out to watch Rain Man. While pondering over the countless themes of Moby Dick, we tuned in to "thirty-something" and "Roseanne." But the monumental term paper was due the very next day! Oh well. Over the President's Day weekend we saw Melanie Griffith as the Working Girl. Afterwards, we signed up with Stanley Kaplan in the hopes of raising our SAT scores. Some of us preferred to join Joe Bloggs at The Princeton Review. As prom time neared, we repeated that agonizing process of finding a date. On a rainy April evening we agreed that it was indeed "Almost Paradise." In contrast to the solemn dignity of the Russian mayors who visited, some of East's faculty and students aspired to be wrestlers as they struggled in cherry JellO. Suddenly, spring came and so did many, many little people. Peter Pan was here, along with enchantment and Tinker Bell! Unlike Peter Pan, we were growing up; another year was almost over. Then, with the finals, the all-important junior year was over.

9. NOW THAT I'M GOING TO BE A SENIOR, CAN I STOP TAKING A FOREIGN LANGUAGE?

a) Why? Don't you want to be bilingual?

b) You lazy senior, you! Already have decalchitis?

c) Wait until college. Then, you can take Greek!

Senior Year

Please write an essay in the space provided, discussing the following quote. Be sure to include specific examples from literature, history, current events, or personal experience.

"Time is the image of eternity." (Plato)

And so we returned to our final year at East, wanting it to be a memorable one. College applications hovered over our heads. We were surprised by the $25 parking space fee, but we proudly claimed our small rectangles of asphalt, anyway. We promised ourselves that we'd somehow get them done. Already into the first week, we worried about what the future held. However, we were proud to boast 24 National Merit Semifinalists. On a more solemn note, we were saddened by news of the earthquake in the San Francisco Bay area. To compound our worries, we sweated over calculus and physics. However, we lived in wondrous times, watching the Berlin Wall as it came down, as the world made true progress towards freedom. Then, Little Shop of Horrors brought some comic relief, in the form of a carnivorous, man-eating plant. Several girls competed for the coveted title of Junior Miss, renamed Young Woman of the Year. Yet, in the back of some of our minds lurked the pressures of the early admissions process. We waited in line in the freezing cold for tickets to Back to the Future, Part II. Although causing a few two-hour delays, the cold weather gave us no hopes for snow days. We disagreed about the role of America, in its invasion of Panama.

Everyone heralded the coming of the new decade, as the Eighties came to a close. We all tried to convince our parents that Senior Cut Day was a time-honored tradition at East. Some of us got involved in the new, improved student government. On President's Weekend, we frolicked in the Florida sun, returning with Mickey Mouse ears and golden tans. And then the joys of Senioritis set in.

And the days went by so quickly. We watched our friends romp across the stage in cowboy hats and twirling calico skirts in Oklahoma. Next, the Big Event, the Senior prom, came around, leaving us with memories that would last a lifetime. And when everything was all over, we donned our caps and gowns, sitting through the Graduation ceremony with mixed emotions, happy to have begun a new chapter of our lives, yet fearful of what the Real World would hold. But the memories of our four years at East, would always live on within us; something to hold on to, the image of eternity.
Dear Class of 1990:

Four years ago you entered East just like so many freshman classes before you. You were both excited and apprehensive. Both of us did not know what to expect. You soon adjusted to life at East, and by the time Spirit Week was over that year you had become an important part of East. The Class of '90 - the Class of the new decade - was being noticed. I was proud of your accomplishments and felt good about your future at East.

The years since you entered Cherry Hill High School East have gone by quickly. In fact, they have gone by too quickly. You proved that my feelings about you were correct. In academics, in social activities, and in student activities, you have been successful. The achievements that you leave behind, as the Class of 1990, will be a challenge to all of those that follow in the next decade. You have grown and learned much. You have accepted new challenges and have been a positive influence on the other classes. These experiences have helped you gain a better understanding of yourself and of others. Yes, East has had a tremendous influence upon your life, and the Class of 1990 has had an impact upon East.

And now, four years later, you are about to leave East, and again like so many senior classes before you, you have mixed emotions. The prospect of freedom brings joy, yet there is a feeling of sadness for what you are leaving behind. The education and experiences you received at East will serve you well as each of you embark upon a new and exciting phase of your life. What you leave behind will not be forgotten, for memories can be enjoyed for a lifetime.

I wish you health and happiness in the years to come and hope that you are successful in all of your endeavors.

Sincerely,

Edward H. Collins
Assistant Principal
Class of 1990

To the Class of 1990,

It is with great pride that I congratulate you, the Class of 1990, on your growth and success over the past four years.

Your journey through East has been a most successful one. From the Freshman Semi-Formal to the Senior Prom; from the Boardwalk in Atlantic City to the spirit of '90 airplane; from Dorney Park to Disney MGM; from 4th place in Spirit Week to an unprecedented back-to-back first place finish; from lollipop sales to the first ever Jello Wrestling spectacular, you have left your mark on your school.

As you reflect on your years at East, you can be proud of your accomplishments as individuals and as a group. You are better for your experiences and East is better for your having been here.

One measure of a person's worth is that they have left things better than they found them, and from the moment you arrived at Cherry Hill East, you began to improve yourself and help East to become a better place for the students who will follow you.

Since success is a journey and not a destination, you must not stop to rest now, but continue to work to improve yourself and the world of which you are a part. I am confident that you will continue to make our world better than you found it, just as you have improved the life of Cherry Hill High School East.

Good Luck.

Keith J. Haines
Adviser to the Class of 1990.

DANIEL CHOI

The following contains absolutely nothing about Daniel Choi's grades, scores, awards, or activities; this is about Dan.

Don't expect Dan to give a dissertation about the manifestation of existentialism in Shakespeare's sonnets. That was tenth grade, when "manifest" was his favorite word and the thesaurus was his best friend. And don't ask him what were his SAT's, CBAT's, GPA's, CAT's, DOG's etc. Dan has long since repudiated these mathematical abstractions and all other sophisticated garbage to redeem his childhood. Why not ask him, "What's your favorite ice cream flavor?" He'd much rather respond to this question than any other.

His new credo, "I don't wanna grow up. I'm a Toys R Us kid," does not mean that he plays Nintendo all night or hangs out at the mall every Friday. It means that his curiosity is insatiable, his imagination infinite. His favorite words are now "religion," "vegetables," and "cellulacy." Okay, so Dan could be described as an ascetic, but for a guy who longs to sit under a mango tree to philosophize, there is no better lifestyle.

Mothers of young Korean girls can rejoice that Dan will attend Harvard this fall (just don't tell them that he is an English major, not Pre-Med!). His lifelong goal is to have his name listed under Chaucer's on the catalog of authors anthologized in Cliffs Notes.

ARTHUR CHOW

Don't treat your puppy like a dog, dog, dog! (No, no, no!) Give him Arthur Chow!

And Art Chow can do a lot more than feed puppies.

He's been class publicity manager for Student Congress and an active member of student government, a violinst in the orchestra, president of the Cum Laude Society, member of the NJ State Science League, an FOP-er, Cable 18 newscaster, and an announcer for the Broadcast team.

And Art puts litter in its place.

Outside the congested halls of East, Art Chow makes good use of his free time and space. He's been president of the Taiwanese Youth Group of South Jersey, conductor of the Taiwanese Youth Orchestra, a member of the East Coast Committee of the Taiwanese-American Conference....

His honors: All South Jersey Orchestra, seventh place in the state in Chemistry II (on the first place team), finalist for piano for NJ Governor's School of the Arts, and a NJ Boys' State alternate.

How do you live the Art Chow way? "Live with no regrets. Work some, play some—NOT work hard, play hard (extremes will kill)."

And don't cut class.

And feed your puppies well.

NIRAJ GUSANI

Reserved and quiet on the exterior, Niraj Gusani, although not known by everyone, has been one of East's most successful students. In the classroom, Niraj's record stands for itself. He has been named a National Merit Finalist, Tandy Technology Scholars and American College Scholarship Nominee, and three-time National French Contest Winner.

Two of his favorite courses include English IIB with Miss Rocchino (where he learned to write) and History IH with Mr. Hillman (where he learned the meaning of work).

Outside the classroom Niraj has been just as busy. He was on the national third place Mock Trial Team in 1989 and has been a bulwark of the Science League team since tenth grade.

In eleventh grade, Niraj placed first in the state among all Chemistry II students. He also does volunteer work at West Jersey Hospital and is Secretary General of the Model U.N.

In the future Niraj plans to go to college and hopes to pursue some science-related field (he hasn't the faintest idea which one). At the moment he is just taking one step at a time.
KIM HOKE

On the surface, Kim Hoke is your average smart kid. She plays the viola for orchestra, pit, and chamber strings. In addition, she is a member of FOP, and science league. She belongs to Marching Band, her favorite activity because of the great conversations and nice warm rehearsals.

But otherwise, she really stands out in the crowd. Kim had gathered many special honors while here at East. She’s been selected as a member of All State Orchestra. Academically, she’s won the George Washington University Science Award, placed second in the National Spanish Contest, and risen to the distinction of National Merit Finalist.

Once you look even deeper you’ll see Kim the person. She is an adventurer, always searching for a new experience, whether in tasting new foods, traveling to new countries, or meeting new people. She is a visionary, learning not by memorizing, but by comprehending, and always keeping in mind long-term goals. Kim is a conversationalist. No matter what the talk is about, poetry, philosophy, or procrastination, she will be there. She is fun-loving. She can always manage a laugh, no matter how bad the joke. Be careful of labeling Kim, she just might surprise you.

ALOK KAPOOR

Alok Kapoor knows how to cook hamburgers. Alok Kapoor knows how to write poetry. Alok Kapoor knows how to be a pal. Alok Kapoor knows how to ace tests, grind out scholarly term papers, and study like the guru of geekdom. Alok Kapoor knows how to outdistance everyone from John Travolta to Bobby Brown with his terrapin-shaped toes. Alok Kapoor knows how to drive a car. Alok Kapoor knows the definitions for every word in the American Heritage Dictionary except female, which he plans to learn about soon.

Alok Kapoor knows how to debate (as the captain of East’s champion debate team). Alok Kapoor knows how to play on the varsity tennis team. Alok Kapoor knows how to edit Eastside’s News Section and chair Adopt-a-Grandparent. Alok Kapoor knows how to be a Young Democrat, a Mock Trial member, and a concerned World Affairs participant. Alok Kapoor knows how to win scholarships and awards (including one for the Governor’s School for Public Issues, Boys’ State alternate, NJIT Poetry Contest Honorable Mention, South Jersey semi-finalist ranking in the South Jersey Coaches Tournament doubles, and publication in the Willows Poetry Anthology). Alok Kapoor knows how to work for a court reporting firm and as a cashier at Arby’s.

Alok Kapoor knows his own philosophy: Fight to the death. Alok Kapoor knows how to live by it.

Alok Kapoor knows a lot of things.

MADHAVAN KRISHNAN

Mod knows football. Mod knows baseball. Mod knows basketball. Mod knows tennis. Mod knows biology.

That’s right. Madhavan Krishnan is the smartest jock you’ll find roaming the halls of East. This summer he was selected to represent Cherry Hill East at the prestigious Governor’s School on the Environment, where he met some of the greatest minds in the state. He has played on the boys varsity tennis team (an opportunity to get away from school and unwind) and was captain of his intramural volleyball team. As sports editor of the yearbook, Madhavan knows every aspect of every sport East has to offer. He has also worked as a biology lab aide (he enjoys cleaning out those various agar cultures), participated in the Biology Science League Team, and taken part in the annual Model United Nations. Madhavan legitimately leaves school at 1:35 every day to attend UMDNJ - the John F. Kennedy Medical Scholars Program. Some of the other accolades that he has received include: Excellence and Honors Placement in the AATSP National Spanish Contest, National Merit Letter of Commendation, and Garden State Distinguished Scholar. Living by the motto of a famous athletic footwear corporation, Mod says, “Just do it!”
East's Cum Laude Society, composed of the top fifteen percent of the senior class, is one of the school's most prestigious organizations. This society, currently led by Dr. Ann Eck, is part of an eighty-four year old organization. It honors certain deserving East students and allows these members to enrich the rest of the school through a free, in-school tutorial service. They help students who have trouble solving trigonometric equations. They come to the rescue of those who find themselves hopelessly lost in conjugating the subjunctive tense. They serve those who need assistance in penetrating the confusion of quantum mechanics and electron orbitals. They are the answer to every student's prayers.

In the spring of their junior year, the top five percent of the class is inducted into the society during a special ceremony (complete with robes and candles!). The next five percent then joins the Cum Laude homeroom at the beginning of their senior year. At the end of the first semester, the society proudly adds the remaining members. The Cum Laude Society has enabled our class's top-ranking scholars to enjoy the honor and recognition that they truly deserve.
We all took the PSATs our junior year. For some of us, they were torture; for others, they were practice for the SAT's; however, for some, they were a chance to earn state and national recognition along with scholarship opportunities. Twenty-four East students' scores ranked in National Merit Semifinalists. This was the highest number of East students ever chosen to be Semifinalists. East had more Semifinalists than any other public school in New Jersey.

Students whose scores ranked in the top five percent of the nation were awarded National Letters of Commendation. These much-deserved honors have continued East's reputation as the Home of Champions.
We Had Joy, We Had Fun,

We've been hearing about it since our junior year. Every time we heard those magic words, childhood images would uncontrollably rush through our heads. Since freshman year, we've waited to become seniors and gloat about it. But when February crept up on us, we were taken by surprise and began to realize that the time had come. It was time to see the symbol of our senior-ness: Mickey Mouse.

Thursday, February 15. 6:45 a.m. Cars pulled into the parking lot, filled with overstuffed suitcases packed for the Florida sun. As we checked our baggage that morning, we hoped to leave that second, but we still had a full day of school to endure. During that endless day, many seniors found themselves singing popular Disney tunes to pass the time. But all of our built up anticipation broke loose when the bell finally rang that afternoon. As we were rushed to the airport and onto our respective planes, scenes of the tanning sun warming a beach of seniors filled our minds and kept our spirits high. The turbulence of the flight did not shake our thoughts for a moment, for we were set to have the best four-day weekend imaginable. Leaving the below freezing temperatures of Philadelphia, we stepped into the warm Floridian breeze that brought us to our home for the next four days - the Days Inn Motel. After dumping our luggage on the floor, we quickly collapsed on the beds to catch those few hours of sleep needed to keep us up for the full day ahead of us.

Friday. Breakfasting early to energize ourselves, we sleepily climbed into the buses and headed for our first stop in Walt Disney World - the Magic Kingdom. As soon as we entered those inviting gates, we knew that this was no dream. On Main Street, U.S.A., shops lined the streets and even lured some of us in, but others roamed deeper into the Kingdom to experience the other attractions. Choosing from a variety of rides ranging from the breath-taking, thrilling Space Mountain to the more tranquil yet intriguing It's a Small World, we all found something to fit our tastes. But in those enormous lines, especially for the Jungle Cruise, Thunder Mountain, and the Haunted House, we found ourselves cooling down with Mouseketeer Bars, taking pictures, or admiring Cinderella’s Castle from afar. Hopping the train between lands, we soon found ourselves in the midst of Mickey’s Birthdayland, which offered a colorful “life-sized” portrayal of Mickey and his friends’ homes. Exhausted but happy from running around the glamorous Magic Kingdom, we headed back to the motel, anxiously awaiting our next stop - Epcot Center.

Saturday. The enthralling sight of Spaceship Earth prepared us for our visit to Epcot. In Horizons and the World of Motion, we explored man’s progress through the years. Expanding our imaginations with Figment and Captain EO, we enjoyed a journey into imagination. But what really caught our eyes was the newest attraction of Epcot - the Wonders of Life. In this colorful building, we risked out lives in Body Wars and laughed hysterically while watching a unique Cranium Command by Buzzy. As if we didn’t have enough to do, Epcot offered an entire World Showcase that represented several countries, including Mexico, China, France, and America. At each country, we explored the exhibit and bought souvenirs ranging from Japanese swords to Moroccan headwear. That night, some of us chose to have authentic food from a favorite country. After a full day of exploring the world and our futures, we relaxed with an exhilarating laser light show before leaving the excitement of Epcot.

Sunday. As a new addition to Walt Disney World, MGM Studios was an adventure for us all. In typical Disney fashion, the Great Movie Ride welcomed and led us through the making of many classic movies and some of their sets. To learn about all the tricks of the movie business, the Backstage Studio Tour let us experience the special effects of fires and floods while introducing us to famous houses and vehicles all found on one street. What stirred our curiosity was the Disney animation studio - where all those famous flicks, both new and old, originated. Here we learned how an animated cartoon was created and how hard it was to simply finish ten minutes of a movie! In fact, we even had the chance to watch some professional Disney animators in action, right before our very eyes - many of us caught the storyline of a new Roger Rabbit short by watching them magically put those characters to life. After browsing through a few more stores that held Mickey paraphernalia, we left the studios with a greater appreciation for those moviemakers.

Monday. Although it was the last day of our trip, we made it the climax by celebrating Mr. Belchikoff’s birthday with an early morning wake-up song before our departure for Typhoon Lagoon, another new attraction. Bathing suits on, sunscreen lotion in hand, we were ready to tackle the hot Florida sun. Although several of us had already received our share of the sun from nearby beaches or Pleasure Island, many of us still retained a pale Cherry Hill complexion. Ahhh, arriving at the beach was such a relief after the past few hectic days, we could really relax, or could we? Water rides as tame as tubing in a river that encircled Typhoon Lagoon eventually led to using your body as a raft on practically vertical water rides! And if rides weren’t what you had in mind, the wave pool could easily quench your thirst for a day in the ocean. The theme of this park was well developed, even up to an abandoned ship atop the crags that shot water from its top to drench those waiting in line below. Casually lying on the beach, whether to tan or dry off from the day’s wet festivities, was a great way to end our ephemeral stay in Florida.

Leaving beautiful Orlando was difficult, but we faced our destiny with courage and tried to recall all the memories while boarding the plane. As we left the Sunshine State, we felt the humid air once more before entering the plane that would bring us back to reality - bone-chilling frigidity of Philadelphia. On the way home, many of us slept purely from fatigue or celebrated our last day with the natural high caused by the trip. In either case, those images of Florida would stay with us forever, for we would never forget our days in the sun.

Smart, Beautiful, Talented ... the perfect combination.

Ruby Chang  Susan Bean  Cindy Cho  Janice Kam  Patricia Lee  Denise Marone
In October, Ruby Chang became our school's representative for the America's Young Woman of the Year competition. Formerly known as America's Junior Miss, this competition awards scholarships to high school seniors for academics, talent, leadership, fitness, and poise. The selection criteria includes scholastic achievement, judges' interview, physical fitness, poise, and creative and performing arts.

The first consideration of the candidates was on the basis of their transcripts, class rank, and scholastic honors. Then, they had interviews in which they answered questions about their interests. The interviewers selected Ruby and ten others to compete in the final school competition. They were Susan Bean, Cindy Cho, Janice Kam, Patty Lee, Denise Marone, Christy Nipe, Melanie Santos, Monica Villar, Sandy Wu, and Rachel Zibbell.

The candidates had to give a ninety second performance demonstrating their talents in the creative and performing arts. They all showed considerable talent in singing, dancing, or playing a musical instrument. Ruby astounded audiences with her rendition of "The Dance of the Gnomes" by Franz Liszt.

The eleven girls looked truly lovely in their evening attire as they demonstrated their grace, grooming, carriage, poise, and posture. In this portion of the contest, the candidates discussed their school and community activities.

Ruby went on to the county competition in November to become the first runner up. There, she received a scholarship for having the greatest talent. Hers is another example of the admirable achievements of the Class of 1990.
Archana Panda, captain of the girls' tennis team, selected as South Jersey's best girls tennis player.

Cosmetology students Jen Fulginiti, Stacy Zavatone, Anne Wallace, and Michelle Tacknoff work in local salons.

Randi Strosberg headed food drive to aid Hurricane Hugo victims in Charleston, South Carolina.

Using their creative minds, Dan Choi, Ari Levine, and Andy Lawrence win the National Council of Teachers of English Writing Award.

Madhavan Krishnan and Mita Sanghavi work as volunteers at the John F. Kennedy Hospital.

Graham Van Keuren, George Sun, Niraj Gusani, and Tara Harmer (not pictured) participated in the Philadelphia Model Senate.

Patty Lee, Shera Gruen, Sandy Wu, Archana Panda, Eric Friedman, and Carolyn Martus (not pictured) have been taking French with Dr. Rollin since fifth grade.

David Cohen, Niraj Gusani, Kim Hoke, Alan Shusterman, and Dan Choi (not pictured) represent East at the Philadelphia Council of Science Contest.

Yael Lebovic and Martina Choi receive the Scholastic Art Award for 1990.

Shirit Vaturi, an Honorable Mention winner at the South Jersey Fashion Modeling contest.

Finally, after four years of life here at East, the senior class graduates, ready to face the real world.

GIRLS’ STATE

While most of us were beginning our summer vacation, these six girls attended the memorable New Jersey Girls’ State Conference at Rider College sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. For a week they were educated about the various levels of state government, but they were not only educated about these positions, they lived them.

From the first moment the 500 girls from all over New Jersey enter Girls’ state, they were separated into two parties, the Nationalists and Federalists. They were further divided into counties and finally cities. From the beginning, the girls learned about government positions through a series of lectures. Just as the girls became acquainted with each other, they began campaigning and voting for city positions. From there, county positions were voted upon and finally the girls elected the governor of Girls’ State, Betsy Ducat.

The week culminated with many events including a talent show which exhibited some of the finest female talent in the state, two sessions of the State Senate and Assembly, and finally the closing ceremony which brought tears to many of the girls’ eyes with the realization that this extraordinary week was coming to its close. These six girls, along with all who attended Girls’ state, will cherish the friendships that were made and the knowledge that they gained for years to come, and most likely forever.

BOYS’ STATE

During the first week of this past summer, while most of East’s students were relaxing after the close of school, five male students from East attended the American Legion Jersey Boys’ State program. Spending six days at Rider College in Lawrenceville, the delegates obtained hands-on experience about the workings of the American political system.

The delegates were randomly divided into two political parties and twelve cities. From there, the delegates elected officials, ranging from the postmaster general to the mayor, to govern the city and attempt to conquer each’s fictional problems. Next, each county (consisting of two cities) elected its officials. Each party then elected State Representatives and State Senators to deal with actual Jersey problems.

The week culminated in the election of the Governor. Every elected official received a chance to try his luck in handling everyday problems.

Even with the rigorous schedule and strict rules, the delegates did have time for fun. Every day had a specified recreation time which delegates filled by playing sports or just relaxing while listening to music. Practical jokes abounded in every city and no one can forget the chants of “Butch” during the assemblies. The boys not only walked away with an in depth knowledge of America’s system of democracy, but they also had some good times to remember.
Betsy Ducat became the first Cherry Hill East girl to be elected Governor of New Jersey Girls' State. As Governor, the highest position available at Girls' State, Betsy received special honors such as attending Girls' Nation.

Our students from Cherry Hill High School East had the honor of attending the Rotary Youth Leadership Conference in 1989. Competition for these positions was extremely fierce within the Class of 1990, but four seniors, Shera Gruen, Ryan Pearson, Rob Spitz and Randi Strosberg outqualified the remainder of applicants and were offered the opportunity to participate in this enjoyable educational summer experience.

Students were considered for selection based upon their academic standing, involvement in both extra-curricular and community activities and expression of leadership qualities. Only 125 students from southern New Jersey were selected to participate in this prestigious annual event. In addition, Rotary Clubs across the nation and the world held similar meetings during the same time frame, making the assembly an international event.

A typical day started at 7 a.m. with a healthy, but grueling dose of calisthenics to help prepare the students for the intense day of lectures. After breakfast, students attended a morning lecture given by a prominent political official. This was followed by small group sessions designed to discuss the various issues presented by the speaker. Following lunch, another lecturer was heard. The late afternoon found the students participating in a variety of activities ranging from volleyball to singing to swimming. Dinner was at 6 p.m. and the attendees had a varied range of evening activities. With the evening activity restricted to the Stockton State College campus, those at the conference enjoyed programs arranged by the Rotary Club. The first night offered a dance which proved to be a great icebreaker for all. The next night included a funfilled swim party. On the third evening, the Rotary Club hosted a Careers Night, exposing the students to fields where they could employ the leadership training they received at the seminar. On the last night, a Talent Show was staged in which every student at the Rotary Youth Leadership Awards Conference had to participate. The conference concluded with a banquet dinner for the student participants and their proud parents. A fitting ending to a memorable experience.

GOVERNOR'S SCHOOL

While some of you were earning money, were off at camp, or just plain sitting around, ten East rising seniors were attending a relatively new program called the Governor's School. The ten students were selected first by teachers at East; then they continued on to the county level. After that, the state level determined the final decision.

Two students, Madhavan Krishnan and Samir Ahuja, attended the Governor's School for the Environmental Sciences. At this school, the topics ranged from studying the physical environment to the sociological effects of ethnicity in our society.

Alok Kapoor attended the Governor's School of Public Issues and the Future of New Jersey. This program was based on a more lecture-type system of education. With lectures came guest speakers from experts on the environment to gubernatorial candidates.

East also sent five musicians to the Governor's School of the Arts. The students were: Suzanne Datto, clarinet; Evan Sorokin, french horn; Kevin Milner and Dave Park, cello; and Ruby Chang, piano. There were five programs which focused on drama, fine arts, dance, chorus, and music.

Dan Choi and Kim Hoke attended the school of Science and Mathematics. Core courses ranged from Organic Chemistry to Modern Physics to Recombinant DNA. Each student studied in a core course and an elective. However, the major effort of the program was in team projects which all scholars were required to do.

College Applications

6. Personal Statement/Essay

The essay offers an opportunity for you to help us become acquainted with you in ways different from grades, test scores, and other objective data. It allows you to demonstrate your ability to organize your thoughts and express yourself. With this in mind, please write an essay, approximately 200-500 words in length on a separate sheet of paper, about one of the following topics:

A) If you could be a talk-show host and have the opportunity to interview any three prominent persons, living or deceased, whom would you choose, why, and what would you discuss?

B) It has been said that “in the future everyone will be world-famous for fifteen minutes.” Describe your fifteen minutes.

C) Select a creative work—a novel, a film, a poem, a musical piece, a painting, or other work of art—that has influenced the way you view the world and the way you view yourself. Discuss the work and its effect on you.

College applications. The two words dreaded by most seniors. The one writing assignment which will affect the rest of your life. The first part is easy, that is, if you know your full name and address. The next part isn’t too bad either - SAT scores, senior year classes, and a possible major. But, from here on, it’s all downhill. Activities?? They certainly can’t expect me to fit all my activities on those few lines! And teacher recommendations - which teachers would bother recommending me to the college of my choice? Now comes the hard part, I mean, the really hard part. The essay. “In the following space below, please include some information that we would not have otherwise obtained from the rest of your application.” What? How do they expect me to fill up an entire page with an essay completely about me? They probably would not read it anyway, but ...

LEADERSHIP TRAINING CONFERENCE

Ping Li, Mike Morowitz, Betsy Ducat, Melanie Santos, and Billy Kramer

Late in August, the five student Government officers fulfilled one of the most interesting and thought-provoking stipulations in their job descriptions. When taking the position, each officer agrees to make his best effort to attend the Leadership Training Course run annually by the New Jersey Association of Student Councils. And, according to their reactions, all job responsibilities should be this enjoyable.

Deep in the wilderness of Fairview Lakes, NJ, they spent three short days exchanging ideas and trying to become better student leaders.

The NJASC has run the program for over thirty years, aiming to shape New Jersey’s leaders of tomorrow. Representatives from high schools all over the state came together under the supervision of a wonderful LTC staff.

Upon reporting back to Cherry Hill, East’s officers said that they gained many important lessons that they would consider while trying to make 1989-1990 a great year. In the process, these five seniors learned about each other and about effective leadership.

GIRLS CITIZENSHIP INSTITUTE

Early last summer, representatives from high schools throughout New Jersey attended the Girls Citizenship Institute to learn about future career choices. Based at Douglass College of Rutgers University, the session covered topics from math & science careers to FBI careers. Each day of the week, the girls attended three lectures of either open discussion or guest speakers. One of the most memorable parts of the week for Gina was the great social atmosphere of the session. Everyone enjoyed the week and welcomed it as a start to the summer.

Senioritis?!

Senioritis?? says the Freshman
Startled and confused.
He's still learning how
The common term is used.

Senioritis? says the Sophomore
Repeated by the Frosh.
He's in that middle stage
When everything's a "mosh".

Senioritis, says the Junior
I've heard that term before;
I will soon be catching it
Of that I can be sure.

SENIORITIS!!! screams the Senior
What else can it be?
How else does my GPA
Go from 5 to 2.3?

I cannot do my work
Papers are a chore,
I'll just sit back and relax
School's an awful bore.

Applications finished,
First semester's gone,
As far as I'm concerned,
The year's already done.

When I step off the plane
From Disney's magic lure,
School is ancient history
I'm going back no more.

There is something yet,
A small technicality.
A matter of graduation,
Just a nice formality!

The Seniors' Last Hurrah: winning Spirit Week '89.
A light rain fell softly in the velvet night as we arrived at the Garden State Racetrack. Gingerly, so as not to crush our elegant finery, we stepped into the glass elevator. Our excitement grew as we proceeded up. The doors slid open to reveal the elegant splendor of the ballroom. Golden lights twinkled above an ebullient crowd resplendent in shiny satins and swishing silks. Sophisticated ladies draped in dreamy taffeta floated by on the arms of their escorts. Suave gentlemen in dark tuxedos lounged in one corner while their dates hurried to the powder room to check their stylish coiffures. Strains of music floated out from the dance floor. The Junior Prom was already promising to be a very special one...

After posing for the photographer, we sampled the scrumptious hors d’oeuvres. Then as the music beckoned us, we glided down the long mirrored hall to the dance floor. Lights flashed across the floor as everyone danced to the vibrant music. Breathlessly, we swung and twirled to the pulsating rhythm. Later, the mood became more romantic with the slower songs, as we danced long into the night. Although we knew it couldn’t be forever, we knew we would cherish the memory of the Prom always, for it was indeed, almost paradise.

On Wednesday, December 20, Dr. Vivone's senior English classes hosted a Holiday Party for 20 underprivileged preschoolers from Camden. Preparations began in late September as committees formed to plan decorations, food, gifts, a tree, and Santa, with a performance by the Belles of East. Something else, the tree had mittens on it for all 20 children. The most fun went to Jeff Casella who played the guest visitor from the North Pole. It was a magical moment for the children and an everlasting one for the Seniors.

Doin' Our Own Thing -
“Big Yella”

Every school day, rain or shine, that big yellow bus arrives to take us to school. Some of us are always at the stop on time; others scramble out the door, hurriedly gulping down breakfast. The bus is always there (although most students wish it weren’t). Once in a blue moon, it’s late. That’s when we all declare we have a right to go back home—“the bus isn’t coming, Mom! Honest, it really isn’t!”

Perhaps as we became older, our views on that trusty yellow vehicle changed. As freshmen, we anxiously climbed aboard, slipping into the very first seats, sometimes glancing with envy at the rowdy upperclassmen. Then, as sophomores, we boarded more confidently. How we scorned those freshmen at the front! However, we still deferred to the juniors’ right to the back seats. Finally, in our third year of high school, we rightfully claimed our thrones in the very, very back with pretended indifference. My, what grandiose people!

But there would come a day, when we would look upon the whole concept of “school bus” as juvenile. That was when we became SENIORS. With our own (or our parents) set of wheels, we were independent, mature adults, also known as tardy students. Well, the bus will always be there waiting for us when the car doesn’t start!
A Time Of Their Own

8:00 A.M. The bell has just rung signaling the beginning of homeroom. However, for many students who are enrolled in the special homerooms or grade level offices, the day starts at 7:30. While to many, the homeroom period signifies only a place to record attendance and receive passes, there are others who utilize this time to add to their learning or to perform a service for their fellow classmates.

There are music homerooms; Belles, Madrigals, Band, who need this time for rehearsal; there is Cum Laude where students can receive valuable tutoring help. The members of Student Congress have their own homeroom for scheduling the activities for which East is so proudly noted. The photography aides and other lab aides assist the instructors by mixing the chemicals and setting up lab areas for student endeavors. Eastside and Eidolon schedule the commitments that go into their award-winning publications.

There are others, all involved in doing something extra that benefits someone at a later point in time. So when you hear the Pledge of Allegiance recited over the intercom, remember the students who stood, pledged and served.

SPECIAL HOMEROOMS 117

“LET IT SNOW, LET IT SNOW
LET IT SNOW”

“SNOW!” Immediately, every head in the classroom turns eagerly toward the windows. Everyone watches with bated breath as light flakes swirl around gently outside.

“IT’S STICKING!” With whoops of delight, students rush to the windows. As giggling students start snow dances, the teacher attempts to restore order.

“Now, folks, you have seen snow before! Please be seated,” he pleads. Slowly, all take their seats. “By the way, if this continues, the test tomorrow will be postponed.” A chorus of gleeful approval resounds as everyone relaxes.

That night, every student does their own weather watch. Some station themselves in front of the television screen, hanging onto the weather announcer’s every word. Others call their classmates to debate about the prospect of more snow. Many diligent students promptly choose to ignore their homework in order to pursue the more exciting interests: watching Roseanne, playing Nintendo, or doing nothing.

The next morning finds students engaged in various activities: sleeping, watching Cable 18, worrying about neglected homework, and listening to KYW New Radio, 1060. Those listening wait impatiently as the man announces “547, 548, 549, 550, . . . 552, 553 . . .” In panic, they run to their phones in the hope that others will have heard the magical numbers:551.

Ten minutes later finds everyone glued to the radio. Even the lazy sleepers listen intently to the school closing announcements.

“549, 550, . . . 551!” the students shriek for joy. Immediately, some drop back onto their pillows. Others pull out their heavy coats, boots, and sleds as visions of snowball fights, sledding, and snowmen dance through their heads . . .
Things to pay attention to when analyzing doodles:
1) The pressure of the pen or pencil. If the marking is thick and bold, then the doodler is probably a dynamic, strong-minded individual. If it’s light and delicate, she could be of above-average intelligence and receptive to new thoughts and ideas.
2) Where the doodle is on the page. If it’s in the center of the page, the doodler is very artistic and has no qualms about flaunting her talent. When a person doodles something slanted to the right, it shows more progression and activity than if it’s to the left, which may indicate “holding back.”
3) Objects around the doodle. What other objects are around the doodle? A ladder leading up to stars? Initials within a heart? Like a jigsaw puzzle, doodles make up a picture of a person’s current mindset!
4) The shape of a doodle. Is it curved, straight or angled? CURVED: Affection, friendliness, creativity STRAIGHT: Preciseness, orderliness ANGLED: (like shark fins!): Criticism, stress, planning
5) The amount of detail on the doodle. Some people just can’t leave their doodles alone! Are the drawings sparse or done with a lot of extras? If you can’t help “filling in,” you have a great need to know exactly what’s going on — you may not like open spaces or unconfirmed ideas.
6) Repetition — How often is the doodle drawn? Is the same object traced over and over again on the page? Then you know that the artist was either anxious or concentrating intently on one particular thing.

Doodle Dictionary

ANIMALS: If you draw horses, dogs, cats, birds or a particular animal a lot, it’s pretty obvious you’re an animal lover. You probably draw them more if you’re away from them, though. According to the book Your Doodles and You, you probably draw animals less if you spend more time with them!

TRIANGLES: You are curious about life in a logical sort of way.

ARROWS: Heavy arrows are drawn by goal-oriented individuals who have a lot of forcefulness and determination. If the arrows point upward, the doodler is shooting high, spiritually and intellectually. If there are a series of curved arrows, the doodler is a quick thinker.

BODY: The way that a doodler draws people shows a lot about how she relates to others. If she draws herself with her hands on hips, she is defensive. If she’s in a crowd of other people, she may see herself as very social. If she doodles herself with feet that are too small for the body, it’s a sign of insecurity. Drawing a floor beneath those feet shows that she’s trying to build up security.

CIRCLES: These indicate a sensitive approach to life, but opened cones illustrate repressed feelings and frustrations within a doodler. If you sketch a circle within a circle, you likely have a desire to burst loose from prescribed patterns. People who doodle dots have a “wait and see” attitude.

FACIAL FEATURES: This doodler is interested in people! If you do eyes often, it means that you have an appreciation for beauty. If you do caricatures—say a face with a really big nose—it could mean that you have a good sense of humor or that you’re especially sensitive about a part of your appearance.

OTHER THINGS:

POXES: Oddly, individuals love to draw boxes! Angled boxes indicate that the doodler is very constructive. Doodlers who despise being left alone draw boxes within a box, showing a need for companionship. Shading in checkerboards means the artist has a sharp mind, and is aware of the forces of good and evil!

HOUSES: In “doodle lingo,” houses mean security! They represent comfort, warmth, and shelter. A pathway, open door and smoking chimney indicate that the doodler is friendly and open to meeting new people. Trees, flowers and curtains show love of beauty in the home.

LETTERS AND INITIALS: People generally write letters or initials of those they are thinking of. If you write your initials over and over again, you are concerned with your identity. If you write someone else’s—like a guy’s—then you are definitely preoccupied with him!

SPIDER WEBS: Those who weave webs with their pencils are “networkers” — they long to accumulate large quantities of money, fame, fortune, or friends!

STAIRS AND LADDERS: Ambitious climbers doodles these often! If hastily drawn, it shows that a person will scramble to the top, no matter what the cost! A more complete staircase indicates a well-planned struggle to rise above the rest.

STARS: High aspirations.

SYMBOLS: Hearts, shamrocks and dollar signs show your interest in love, luck, and money! Other symbols can stand for different religions, cultures, or organizations.

TICK-TACK-TOE: This shows a competitive streak! If you fill it in so that you win, you are aggressive. If you play yourself and lose, you feel inadequate.

120 DOODLING
Sometime during their high school careers, most students have used Cliff's Notes. These small yellow and black booklets have been the source of joy and much relief for many English students. Inside is a concise but comprehensive summary of such ponderous tomes as Moby Dick, The Scarlet Letter, and fortunately A Tale of Two Cities. Cliff's Notes also include an ominous warning about cheating oneself of a fine education if using the Notes is a substitute for reading those illustrious 5lb. classics. However at 1:00 AM with 800 pages to go, most students regretfully reach for the handy little substitute. For many, the yellow rays streaking across the black background on the cover symbolize the rays that Cliff's Notes shine on the dark futures of procrastinating students. Why, they are like little friends, always there when one needs them!
Lunchtime Pasttimes

1. Adam Rothenstein and Steve Scarduzio use a lunch period to catch up on some last minute homework.

2. Jeff Shreiber, Mike Donaldson, Mike Ellis, Kevin Ridge, and Stephane Ratte hanging out in the courtyard.

3. Riham Elsayed-Ahmed starts the cadence for double-dutch.

The bell! Finally, it's lunchtime! Time to sit back, kick up your heels, gossip, and RELAX! Whether it's 3rd period brunch (Agh! How early! Who can eat a full meal at 10:30 a.m.?) or 4th, 5th, or 6th period lunch, there are always countless numbers of students crowding in both of the cafeterias. The cafeteria, a place that we have come to call "freedom."

To each student, lunchtime has a meaning of its own. Some use lunch as a time to go to the library and cram for their next period test; others, use it to do homework, to meet with guidance counselors, or to just hang around having fun.

When it is a nice day out, you can count on the courtyard being crowded with students playing hackey sack, jumping double-dutch, having a catch, or playing frisbee. No matter what, students are always out there socializing, having a great time, and enjoying the period to the fullest.

So, when you look back on East and remember the good times you had, never forget the lunchtime pasttimes and the forty-two minutes that you called your own!
5 Minute Reprieve

The five minutes between each period during the school day allows most students ample time to pass from class to class without having to rush. Sure, it's a little tough to get from the third floor of C-wing, through C-wing intersection into F-wing - but it can be done. During those few minutes, some students grab a few minutes of gossip with friends, some pass a note written diligently in a previous class and some make a bee-line for the locker to grab the forgotten notebook. There are also a few who manage to cram a last few minutes of study for an up-and-coming test. But whatever the need, those five minutes offer a quick reprieve from the academic rigor of Cherry Hill East.

126 FASHION
Champion, Polo, Guess, Calvin, Esprit—just a few of the labels poling out from collars. Loafers, high tops, Keds, boots, and sandals—another example of variety of East. Some students prefer big, baggy sweats every day. Other would never appear without argyles. Hair is parted, shaved, dyed, teased, sprayed, cramped, permed, spiked, and even mohawked. Preppies, surfers, rockers, and slobs—just a few common descriptions. From short skirts and cutoffs, to pleated pants button-downs, fashion creates sacred personal statements.

The variety astonishes. Jeans—simple blue jeans—are worn in more styles than possibly imaginable. Torn, acid washed, bleached, black, gray, white, and even red “blue jeans” are mainstays of the high-school wardrobe.

Fashion at East is as diverse as the student body. Fashion remains individual; however, conformity to “in-look” provides a measure of popularity. The basic look of the times are unisex tees and sweats. As always, the most interesting aspect of the fashion statement is that what is here today will most likely be gone tomorrow.

THE ALMA MATER
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater
Cherry Hill East Alma Mater
Though the years to come
May part us,
We'll be ever true.

Through the strife and battle
Through the years of glory,
We shall hail thee,
Never fail thee
Crimson and white go forth
Before us.

Cherry Hill East High we thank you
For the friendships we have made here.
These four years we shall always treasure,
We'll remember you!

SCHOOL MOTTO:
Vir Sapiens Fortis Est
A wise man is strong

MASCOT:

COLORS:
Crimson and white.

EIDOLON:
Exemplary; unequaled in excellence.

TOP TEN REASONS FOR AN EARLY DISMISSAL:
10. My stomach hurt.
9. I got a run in my stockings.
8. I thought it was a half day of school.
7. I had to see "General Hospital".
6. Sale at Macy's!
5. Visiting Colleges.
4. I had an 8th period physics test.
3. I had a Big Mac attack!
2. Bruce Lee film festival at the Marlton 8.
1. Pep Rally!

TOP TEN REASONS FOR NOT DOING HOMEWORK:
10. Oprah had an excellent guest and show.
9. I'm a Senior!
8. I had to watch Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.
7. It was a weekend.
6. The Shore!
5. "What homework?"
4. Flyers game at the Spectrum.
2. I had to work last night.
1. Senioritis!

In January 1967, Cherry Hill High School East officially came into existence. Before the building of East High School, area students attended Delaware Township High School, which was renamed Cherry Hill High School West.

East was officially dedicated Sunday, May 21, 1967 and the first graduating class was June 1970.

TEN TOP REASONS FOR COMING TO SCHOOL LATE:
10. The Jets were on.
9. I was there, you just didn't see me.
8. I couldn't find my Fruit Loops.
7. I fell asleep in the shower.
6. My alarm didn't go off.
5. I had to wait for my hair to dry.
4. I needed a Denny's breakfast.
3. I forgot to study for a 1st period test.
2. My ride was late.
1. I missed the bus.

DID YOU EVER WONDER?
Why doesn't East have their own stadium?
Why does B242 have a carpet?
How many buses leave East at 2:30?
How many Thanksgiving games has East won?
What was the brick structure in the middle of the courtyard used for?
Why is D-wing next to A-wing, when B-wing is on the other side of the school?
Why East doesn't have a swimming pool?
Why East can't have a Salad Bar for lunch every day?
Whatever happened to the Senior Lounge?

MORE DID YOU EVER WONDER?
Why East's two gyms are across the school from each other?
Why East and West are not named for people like the other schools in the district?
What teachers talk about at lunch?
Whatever happened to the stone cougar?
Who's buried under the monument out front?
What's a Demogorgon?
Why the clock in A022 is encased in glass?
How many seats there are in our auditorium?
Why the air-conditioning stops at F-wing?

DID YOU EVER MARVEL . . .
. . . at the size of our Marching Band!
. . . at the consistent quality of our thespian productions!
. . . at the scope of our English department!
. . . at the amount of activities in this school!
. . . at the dance gym!
. . . at the talent in the art department!
. . . at the two lecture halls!
. . . at the number of students accepted to the top colleges!
. . . at our average SAT score!
. . . at the championships won by our athletes!
. . . how lucky you are to have graduated from East!
WE'D LIKE TO SEE YOU AFTER SCHOOL!

2:25! The halls are alive with noisy students, slamming locker doors and cries of "see ya tomarra!" As many rush to board the buses to go home, many merely make a transition into a different side of high school life. This is the time when students stay after to participate in extra curricular activities, make-up school work, serve a detention or just "hang together".

Among the many activities going on, sign painting is probably one of the most noticeable. No one even seems to notice the voluminous sheets of paper spread out along the floor with their accompanying paint-wielding students. The seemingly endless East activities seem to necessitate endless amounts of signs that guarantee us a yearlong parade of color and information, all put together by the creativity of various club members promoting their projects.

Much activity can be found in D-wing, where the sounds of music are heard after regular school hours and in tune to the beat, the thespians are busy rehearsing and blocking shows, while the hammers bang out magnificent sets for upcoming productions.

And this is only a sampling of what goes on at East after school. There are always the athletes gathering for practices or games while the students more interested in the athletics of the mind are often found boning up for Mock Trial, Debate sessions, Chess or Science League, just to name a few.

The darkroom in the photography lab is open for use by those not necessarily enrolled in the classes and the typewriters are not the only sounds of activity coming from the offices of Eastside and Eidolon.

With the approach of 4:15, the building slowly empties out as the students board the late bus. For these people, after-school activities are the other half of an essential school life.

The Music Makers
Every day, a student wanders down D-wing and hears strains of music floating through the hallway. A variety of different activities take place daily in the music hall.

Often, Mrs. Lisa Wilson accompanies the Vocal Workshop as it sings lively, popular tunes. Meanwhile, the Wind Ensemble joins the orchestra for a Beethoven symphony. That wandering student may also hear the melodious chiming of the Belles of East or the lilting sopranos of Chansons.

That same student soon realizes that his school has an unusually diversified and talented music department. The music faculty and students have won a number of awards and honors, including invitations to perform in Carnegie Hall and the Soviet Union. Moreover, the musical groups have won numerous competitions. The orchestra has always done exceptionally well in adjudications, astounding audiences with their talent.

In addition, the Marching Band has earned a well respected reputation for excellence. Indeed, the musicians present a spectacular sight as they march to jaunty tunes, wearing their elaborate uniforms. The graceful Cougarettes accompany the Marching Band as they performed at football games, special events, and Disneyland.

The music department offers many different groups for everyone, from classical musicians to Renaissance troubadours. All of these groups have enough talent to please even the most discerning music critic.
Vocal Workshop, East's introductory choir teaches fundamentals of singing. Students interact musically with others while exploring their individual capabilities. Performing a variety of music, these students display their talents at the various concerts held at East.
East
Singers

East Singers present our young men and women the opportunity to excel in vocal performance expanding their vocal training. To further develop their appreciation of music, the students study choral pieces from various time periods. Through hard work and long practices, these students achieve a high degree of excellence and represent the top echelon of the choral area.

Madrigals

The Madrigal Singers is a balanced group of men and women singers. Their colorful Elizabethan costumes and period instruments bring the Renaissance to life. Their A Capella singing showcases the gaiety and cultural diversity of the 1500's. This extra-curricular group display their unique talent throughout the Delaware Valley.
The Belles of East is an extra-curricular activity comprised solely of female voices. These talented women accompany themselves on English handbells. Their dedication is rewarded by their popularity throughout the Delaware Valley, furthered by the various awards they have attained.

Established in 1986, the All National High School Honors Youth Orchestra performs biennially at the Music Educators National Conference which is held in Washington. Sponsored by the National School Orchestra Association and the MENC, the All National Orchestra is comprised of the elite members of the fifty All State Orchestras (Approximately 150 people). Since they perform professional level musical literature, the outstanding brass, woodwind, percussion, and string instrumentalists of this group must not only audition, but also prepare a tape with their most advanced solo literature. In addition to its concert in Washington, this honors group will also perform in Helsinki, Finland during the summer. This year, two musicians from the East Wind Ensemble, Suzanne Datto and George Sun, have been accepted into the All National Orchestra.

Comprised of nearly twenty members, the Chamber Orchestra is designed for the student who dreams of making it as a professional musician. One of their greatest assets is their student conductor, Matthew Salzman. Matthew began conducting last year for rehearsals and quickly moved into conducting the ensemble most of the time. He has been playing the viola for over eight years and is very familiar with the other string instruments. He hopes to pursue a career as a professional conductor.

CONCERT

Concert Band is East’s introductory band for any student interested in music who plays a band instrument. It offers an opportunity to perform with others, to improve musically, to explore new styles of music, and to express oneself creatively. The sections of the band include the brass, woodwinds, and percussion.
Symphonic Band is offered to those instrumentalists who have advanced beyond the introductory level of playing a band instrument. It is comprised of brass, woodwind, and percussion sections. After auditioning, the students in this group perform a variety of band music. The styles of music and technique needed to play are at an advanced level.

Cherry Hill East's Wind Ensemble is a group of outstanding brass, woodwind, and percussion instrumentalists. They study and perform difficult music literature that is scored for musicians with highly advanced techniques and skills. The students of this organization represent the top echelon of the band department and have proven this by winning numerous awards along with a reputation for excellence in both commitment and performance.
The Pit Orchestra is an extra-curricular activity comprised of outstanding brass, woodwind, percussion, and string instrumentalists from the Wind Ensemble and the Orchestra. Under the direction of Mr. Bruce Yurko, the members of this organization provide the instrumental music for all the spring musicals. After school, these dedicated students sacrifice virtually as many hours as the actors and actresses in the musical; moreover, the small ensemble rehearse difficult musical literature scored for musicians with only the most advanced technique. Clearly, the devotion and talent of these musicians are evident in their six performances.

The Belles and Madrigals of East had an eventful year. They recorded a demo tape that is to be evaluated for a performing position in the Children's Concert series at the Academy of Music. In addition to this, they performed in Independence Hall in Philadelphia earlier this year.

The Cherry Hill East Wind Ensemble received the honor of an invitation to perform in China this summer.

Matthew Salzman, George H. Sun, and Daniel Lin were involved extracurricularly with the Main Street Pops from Voorhees, New Jersey for the past year.

Ruby Chang has continually contributed to the school and community with her professional level of performing. Along with the local concerts, she played with the New Jersey Pops Orchestra during this year.

Excelling in all forms of music, Steve Mathai has been a nine year member of the Philadelphia Boys Choir. Three years ago, he started singing in their men's choir. This choir and the previous one has appeared numerous times on television and has traveled worldwide.

Last summer, Tracey Geisler performed the lead role Maria in the broadway musical West Side Story at the Ritz Theater in Oakland.

The Belles of East, Orchestra, Wind Ensemble, East Singers, and Madrigal Singers were adjudicated at the Boston Music Festival in May this year.

In addition to playing in the Orchestra and acting as Assistant Conductor by conducting East's Chamber Orchestra for the past two years, Matthew Salzman started the Apollo String Orchestra at East.

The East Singers represented the state of New Jersey at the Valley Forge Memorial Chapel its' annual state memorial program.

Howard Yermish is deeply involved in East's music department and has demonstrated this devotion through various achievements and activities. One of these includes "Celebrations of the Lost Tribe", a musical selection Howard composed that is currently part of the Brass Ensemble's repertoire.

Not only has Conway Kuo been the concert master of East's Orchestra for the past three years, but he also carries his love for the violin outside of school. During three summers of his high school years, he participated in the Aspen Music Festival held in Colorado where he studies his instrument along with other selected musicians from around the world.

With every new school year comes Spirit Week. Each class unites for six days in September to compete for points that could win them top spot. The Spirit Week Dance kicked off the competition. The battlefield was the dance floor as students presented their versions of dance styles, from heavy metal to disco. The freshmen were the first to win points by having the most members of their class attend the dance.
The new improved obstacle course, full of seemingly impossible events, made up the Cougar Relay. The mighty seniors fought hard to emerge victorious.

The excitement carried over into the next day's events as the four classes continued their struggle for victory. This day's major event was the traditional cake-decorating contest. Creativity abounded with displays of amazing "objects of art," from the cougar, our mascot, to a cake model of the entire school.
Next, the students moved on to cafeteria decorating. They got lost in a jungle and joined hands when frightened by Junior ghosts, but the Senior airplane glided right past all and captured another victory.

What? Milk drinking went sour? Yes, that’s right! This year’s new event was the Twister board, with the last person standing declared the winner. In each lunch period, more than one student won, and this new event proved to be popular as well as successful. Each class gained points for their stretching, bending and, of course, twisting.

As everyone knows, Spirit Week always goes out with a bang. Flowing hallways full of red and white filled the school as Color Day signified the final day of this extravaganza.

Shortened periods led to the powerful Pep Rally, where all the fall sports teams were introduced and cheered. The winner of the yearbook-sponsored Tootsie Roll Guessing contest was then announced. A guess within seven pieces won senior Billy Kramer the entire mountain of Tootsie Rolls, a free yearbook and points for his class. Finally, the jump rope contest was held. Although the juniors came in first for this contest, the class of 1990 reigned victorious and took home the gold for the second consecutive year; the only class in East history to do so.
Give These Kids an A+

The library transformed from a source of knowledge to a source of life.

Chairperson Samir Ahuja sets a good example by donating blood.

Gerald Griffin relaxes as he donates his pint.

Meg Stanford is almost done.

Enjoying their treats after the work is through.
There are many people who would accuse young people of thinking only of themselves. However, within the large student body at Cherry Hill East, a group of dedicated, caring individuals has proved that statement to be absolutely wrong. Twice a year East students are challenged with the task of donating and collecting as many pints of blood as possible.

The Blood Drive starts off with the selection of chairpersons to coordinate the entire process. Through private interviews ten were chosen from all of the candidates. The next crucial task was to attract as many potential donors as possible. With the help of many volunteers who stayed after school, signs and posters were put up in every hallway, notifying students of this spectacular event. All of the publicity had one central theme, “Give Blood.”

As the actual day approached, the periodical section of the library was reorganized to accommodate beds and equipments for collecting blood. From all of the students and faculty members a total of 450 pints of blood was collected, an amount that exceeds all the other high schools in the Penn-Jersey area.

Though each donor only received a doughnut as a reward, the emotional reward far outweighs the food. Each person knew they had made a difference in someone’s life. The pint of blood could easily replenish, would be used to save countless lives.
On October 29, 1989, on the freshman football field, the junior and senior girls confronted each other in the traditional game of touch football known as Powder Puff. Unlike regular football, Powder Puff forbids tackling, as well as blocking below the waist. Also, instead of having last names on the backs of the jerseys, nicknames such as “Gonzo” and “Loopie” caught the spectators’ eyes. An unlimited number of players on each team allowed every interested student to participate.

Although both sides played valiantly, Lisa Catalini, a junior, intercepted a pass and returned it for the only touchdown in the game. This led the juniors to defeat the seniors 6-0. Throughout the game, both sides took time out to meet with coaches to discuss plays and strategies. The junior coaches included: Matt Geis, Jeff Barnett, Jeff Hoak, Mike De Marco, Gino Priolo, and Jeff Saviano. The seniors’ coaches were Steve Lang, Eric Friedman, Mike Ellis, Tim Faucett, and Scott Franks. In addition, the quarterbacks for the teams were Amy Grossman ('91) and Jamie Cohen ('90).

All the girls agreed that Powder Puff has created a tradition of fun and competition. Monica Sanders, a senior, remarked that “Powder Puff is cool and good competition between the juniors and seniors.”
It all happened one night, one crazy and fateful Friday night. The night was hot. The night was humid. The room was filled with laughter, cheering, screaming, and the sounds of stamping feet. The time had come. Jell-O Wrestling had begun.

On May 19th, hundreds of people gathered in the DiBart Gymnasium. The event, sponsored by Student Congress, was open to all students and teachers at East. Many mustered up the bravery necessary to roll around in squishy red Jell-O, in front of a wild crowd of parents, students, and teachers. Tag teams, composed of two students each, wrestled one another in the regulation-sized ring at the center of the gym. “The Flying Burrito Brothers,” “The Guadalupian Conquistadors,” “The Butheads,” “the Harbingers of Doom,” and “Luke and Darth” boldly squared off against one another. The Jell-O liquefied splattering the floor as dozens of flashily costumed human bodies were constantly bounced off the ropes, put into headlocks, and pinned to the mat. The crowd seemed to love it.

After two rounds of action-packed matches, the long-awaited grand finale was at hand. “The Receding Hairlines,” Mr. Belchikoff, Mr. Musemeci, and Mr. Steele, had challenged the “Monsters of Midway,” Mr. Wood, Mr. Zeff, and Mr. Weaver, to a grudge match in the center ring. The gym grew dark, lit by a single spotlight. And the match ensued, reaching its climax just as the miraculous happened. “The Receding Hairlines” had managed to pin all three of the “Monsters of Midway” into the Jell-O at the same time. The crowd went wild.

Why Jell-O Wrestling? Why not?
1. The Receding Hairlines battle the hooded Midway Monsters.
2. The JELLO ... enough said!
3. Get ready to roll.
4. Jason Friedman surrenders as tag-team partner Brett Wism gets the wrath of the jello.
5. Colleen Shield and Liz Griesback await their challengers.
6. What's so funny? JELLO WRESTLING!
8. TIMBER!
9. Chairwomen Betsy Ducat, Monica Melograna and Fran Turner, well ... smiling.
11. After the match, dirty but victorious.
Kristen Petrone and Sherri Kimball offer the West lion a ride.

Thanksgiving, the time of the annual Homecoming football rivalry between East and West. However, amid the typical hype of this colorful event, this year there was a feeling of tension and uncertainty. The question on everyone's mind was "would there be a game?" For the first time in almost 50 years, a snowstorm ushered in the Thanksgiving holiday, blanketing the football field with 6 inches. The tension mounted as the big day arrived for instead of football players plowing into one another, snow plows criss-crossed the field, valiantly working to clear the playing surface so the game could be played the following day, Friday the 24th.

Although the game was delayed a day, school spirit soared. Hundreds of students from East and West filled the still snow-covered stands. Not only did the current high school students brave the wintery cold, but many of the graduates of both high schools also attended the game - easily recognizable with their respective college emblems emblazoned across jackets and sweat shirts. It turned into a beautiful winter day with strong bright sun and clear, crisp cold - but a special warmth of friendship mingled with spirit and ties of reunion pervaded the game.

Even as we saw something new this year - snow on Thanksgiving - we also witnessed something old and traditional - the reunion of old friends as well as an East Homecoming victory.
A Celebration Of The Arts

The Performing and Visual Arts Society was chartered at East five years ago and since that time has held a yearly spring festival which showcases the talents of East’s artists. The festival, hosted by the Art Honor Society PAVAS, is a special day of tribute to talent. Knowing that Art is the thread that binds civilizations together, PAVAS makes it very clear that the arts are alive and well and living at Cherry Hill East.
Think King Kong and Godzilla are threatening? Obviously you have not met Audrey II, "the world's strangest and most interesting unidentified plant."

During the first two weeks of December, this botanical terror wreaked havoc in our very own auditorium. The skill and dedication of cast and crew transformed the stage into Skid Row-complete with a revolving set, the florist shop, home of this incredible plant. Imagine a pathetic schmuck of a guy, barely existing on the streets of Skid Row, who falls in love with a dizzy, voluptuous blonde. Add a man-eating plant, a sadistic dentist, a querulous shopkeeper, and a Greek chorus style trio of ragamuffins and you have the basis for a very W-E-I-R-D fall production. The combined efforts of the entire company of Little Shop of Horrors left the Audrey-ence hungry for more.

The evil dentist, Jason Friedman hangs around a skid row stoop with bobbysoxers Jen Makris, Rebecca Fried and Marni Sklaroff.

Mr. Mushnik (Heath Weisberg) and Seymour (Dan Traster) shock Audrey (Ronit Mitzner) with their plant Audrey II.

"Where did you get such a weird plant?" asked Radio DJ host Todd Rappaport.

"Do you remember that total eclipse of the sun about a week ago?" answered Seymour.

Seymour divides his time between his favorite plant Audrey II and his favorite girl Audrey.

Audrey II's growing appetite for human flesh is momentarily satisfied by a body part from the evil dentist.
During a romantic interlude between Seymour and Audrey, Mr. Mushnik examines suspicious blood stains.

Seymour waits impatiently as the dentist slowly dies from laughing gas inhalation.

Mr. Mushnik unknowingly climbs in Audrey II's mouth. His death is soon to follow.

Ronnette (Jen Makris), Chiffon (Hasana O'Neal), and Crystal (Isabel Eleazar) listen to Mr. Mushnik's greedy plan to keep Seymour with him on Skid Row.

Seymour (David Hollander) stabs the glutinous Audrey II after his love, Audrey dies in his arms.

Crystal (Julie Seltzer), Chiffon (Romeen Kochhar) and Ronnette (Mindy Weiss) sing about Audrey II's conquest of the world.

Seymour despairingly places Audrey's lifeless body into Audrey II.

The triumphant Audrey II displays its immense power, revealing the dead faces of Mr. Mushnik, the dentist, Audrey and finally, Seymour.
Chairpeople Randi Strosberg, Adrienne Procacc, Laura Stanford, and Rachel Karasick wait patiently for the kids to get their gifts... and what a selection!

Although she won’t speak to them, Mime Leesa Fuhrman helps her new friends have a terrific time.

On December 18, almost 200 East students participated in the annual F.O.P. Rotary Christmas Party at the Hyatt Hotel. Every year, the Fraternal Order of Police, working with students from East and West, gives a Christmas party for mentally retarded and handicapped people.

The preparations began towards the end of October. Everyday after school, nearly 200 students made table decorations, place mats, center pieces, paper gingerbread
Meanwhile, other students made Ballroom preparations. They painted posters and drew pictures of Christmas trees, Disney characters and teddy bears, among many other holiday decorations. Often, several students worked together on one picture for many days.

Students worked on the three separate sections that made up the Santa Claus Room. The pictures that the students made depicted cheery elves frolicking in the snow or carrying presents outside Santa’s Workshop.

After more than a month of preparation, the students went to the Hyatt at 6:00 in the evening on December 17. They worked until 11:00, setting up tables and hanging posters.

The following morning, the students returned to the hotel to receive their guests. At 10:00, the children and adults from various schools arrived. Colleen McEvoy said, “When the first person walked in, all six weeks of work was worth it.” Friendly students, bright decorations, and holiday music greeted the people. The party was an extravaganza of dancing gorillas, lions, chickens, bears, and Minnie and Mickey Mouse. The band played traditional Christmas music combined with their own brand of popular upbeat tunes. 1200 people laughed, sang and danced with the East Mime Company, the Belles of East, and the Madrigals in the Ballroom. Channel 6 and Channel 10 joined the party to film the gaiety.

After lunch, the guests went to the Santa Claus room where Santa waited for them. They were delighted with the fantastic gifts. Each person received one large present, along with many other party favors. After the festivities wore down and the clean-up was finished, all of the students agreed that the F.O.P. Party was a complete success.
Chairperson Joanie Balderstone announces the next act with Publicity Manager Melanie Santos.

On January 19, 1990 music bombarded the audience in the East auditorium. Screaming crowds, exotic dancers, and pulsating music filled the air at East's Lip Sync Night. Chairpeople Joanie Balderstone, Jason Grossberg, and Beth Graybill worked hard to make this Lip Sync one of the most dynamic events that East has ever seen.

Acts like "4 Really Happy Guys and Stan" and "Men Killers" had the audience hollering for more. Filled with an excited nervousness, the performers set the room on fire with electric guitars, rappers, and hardcore fun. Because all the acts were incredible, the judges had a tough choice to make. After counting up the votes, four acts came out on top. In fourth place Jeff Barnett, Matt Kravitz, Henry Parks, Gino Priolo, and Jeff Saviano as "The Fatt 5" rocked the crowd with the song "Principal's Office." Tim Anagnostis and Robby Nipe, better known as "The Powerful Dudes of Pumpitude," muscled their way into third place with "Pump Up The Volume."

Front to back) Michele Meltzer, Lori Sectin, Kristin Petrone, and Liz Owens point to the murderous queen in "The Homecoming Queen's Got A Gun."

Henry Parks, Jeff Saviano, Jeff Barnett, Gino Priolo and Matt Kravitz sing the blues in "Just A Friend."
The tension mounted as second and first places were announced. In second place came the monstrous "Too Dead Crew" where Dave Smith, Tracy Slobotkin, Debbie Mink, Kristen Petrone, Jody Carpenter, Wendy Carpenter, Jen Luns, and Michele Melzer ghoulishly danced to Michael Jackson's "Thriller." Finally, cheers filled the stage as 25 juniors took first prize for their lip sync to "Reproduction."

With so much talent in one night, East can hardly wait to see what Lip Sync 1991 will bring.
Lyle Fisher (Wil Parker) and cowboys Brett Winn and Mark Metzger perform "Kansas City."

In the Dream Ballet, Judd (Brett Winn) kills Curly (Jon Gunn), as Laurie (Marni Sclaroff) futilely attempts to stop him.

Mr. Nation and Mr. Yurko reached an agreement (finally) on how the number should look.
Curly (Jason Friedman) carries Laurey (Mandy Stebbins) in a dance routine for the dream ballet.

The Pallbearers carry off Curly (Jon Gunn) after his death in the Dream Ballet.

Shelby Adams, Julie Seltzer, Mindy Weiss, Michelle Hurwitz, Kathy Comperatore, Sara Braslow, and Jen Bikel dance to “Many A New Day.”

Leesa Fuhrman, Todd Sumsky, and cowboys perform “Kansas City.”
Starting in January, the school auditorium bustled with excitement and activity as East thespians prepared for the Broadway blockbuster, Oklahoma!

The aspiring actors and actresses spent afternoons, weekends, and virtually all free time readying for the show. The memorized lines, rehearsed scenes, practiced dance sequences, and then practiced some more. The Pit Orchestra's hard work was evident as the lively music filled the theatre for the cast to practice jaunty toe-tapping square dances and romantic, graceful pas de deux.

While the cast and orchestra melted into one, the crew worked their magic creating the backdrops. They painted, hammered and drilled; creating a cornfield, a farmhouse, a long log fence and finally, even the "Surrey with the fringe on top." The stage became nineteenth century Oklahoma.

On March 16, the curtain went up to reveal the full spectacle of Oklahoma! Delighted audiences watched as beautiful Laurie, played by Tiffany Van Meter and Kathy Comperatore, fell in love with the handsome Curly, played by Jason Friedman and Jon Gunn. Amid the throng of dancing cowboys and farmers, Curly courted Laurie as the audience clapped its approval. The bright calico dresses and the flannel shirts and overalls of the men created the atmosphere of Oklahoma at the time of the early settlers. The thunderous applause and the standing ovation aptly attested to the success of another East musical!

"The Farmer and the Cowman" performed by the entire Oklahoma company.

East boasts a wealth of unique clubs and organizations which are a part of our commitment to excellence.

East's foreign language and culture clubs provide many opportunities for members to further explore areas which interest them. Members can plan piñata parties, learn about French food, or celebrate Black History month. They can watch foreign films, go on field trips, sell pretzels, brush up on their Korean, or share in a yearly international banquet.

Special interest clubs and organizations also abound at East. For example, East's World Affairs Club provides an open forum for students to express their views on national and international issues. Members of special interest clubs can take part in recycling drives, play chess, write yearbook copy, perform Broadway musicals, or march around the stadium at halftime.

East's community service clubs and organizations are unique. Members can adopt a grandparent, make decorations for the FOP Christmas party, or post signs for the Red Cross blood drive. These organizations allow students to put something back into the community, making Cherry Hill a better place.

All of East's clubs and organizations offer something special to the student body at large. They expand student involvement beyond the classroom, into the world outside. After the last bell of the day rings, East comes alive.

Cruel and unusual punishment and political detention are everyday incidents in one-third of the world’s countries. East’s newly created chapter of Amnesty International is committed to humanitarian change, and dedicated to stopping human rights abuses on a global scale. They join half a million fellow Amnesty members worldwide, who work together impartially on behalf of victims whose human rights have been violated. Amnesty is committed to taking a stand and making a difference. Amnesty works to free prisoners of conscience; those who are imprisoned for their political beliefs. Members at East, along with tens of thousands of others, write countless letters to governments, working to end the torture of prisoners of conscience, to prevent their executions, and to secure their freedom.

On the first of December, the Asian Youth Society transformed the Principal's Conference Room into an exotic dining room. The Society, which has a membership that exceeds one hundred students prepared dishes from Korea, China, Japan, and India. Members of the faculty and staff chose from a delectable variety of appetizers, entrees, desserts, and beverages. There were several different kinds of fried rice, including a delicious vegetable fried rice platter. The creamy vanilla pastries were also a great success. While the diners were feasting on the Asian cuisine, they enjoyed melodic Oriental music. The bright decorations and ornaments completed the effect to produce a dazzling scene. Indeed, the faculty and staff left the banquet with a great appreciation for Asian culture and eggrolls.

Adopt-A-Grandparent

Adopt-A-Grandparent, formed last year, is a group of caring individuals who twice a week visit Meridian Nursing Home and share their time with the residents. These students spend Wednesday and Thursday afternoons with the elderly residents. Often, they join in the Friday Bingo games, aiding the players while they play three to four cards at once. Afterwards they serve snacks and exchange jokes with the residents. The students also visit all the rooms, stopping to chat about favorite television shows and exclaim over photos of grandchildren displayed by proud grandparents. Some students have officially "adopted" a resident as their grandmother or grandfather. In a touching ceremony, students and residents exchange solemn vows to remain friends forever. Then, they sign Certificates of Adoption, which are prominently displayed in the main lobby along with snapshots of the newly formed friends.

The Adopt-A-Grandparent program has helped to form a special bond between the students and the "grandparents." This bond is not only of deep friendship, but also of mutual understanding. Through caring, love, and shared times, these teens have bridged the generation gap to achieve a lasting friendship.

Respect
For Drugs

The Respect for Drugs program provides hands-on experience for East students considering education as essential skills of teaching and helping others while providing an invaluable service to the elementary schools of Cherry Hill. The twenty-three members of this course spend a majority of the year preparing their presentations to six elementary schools that feed into East. Spending a week at each school, the teams of "peer education models" educate their students of the dangers of various drugs, such as alcohol, nicotine, marijuana, and even cocaine, amphetamines and LSD, depending upon the grade level of the students. The presentations commence with a play which involves all members and are followed by group speeches in individual classrooms. Through the use of posters, hand-outs, and visual aids, the Respect for Drugs' members, utilizing their own individual teaching methods and patterns, increase the students' awareness of the hazards of drugs. With the dedication and the assistance of Mrs. Melicent Brams, the experienced supervisor of the program, the members have prompted Respect for Drugs to flourish by demonstrating to younger students the value of human life. Through this valuable course, East establishes a strong foundation for the moral and physical well-being of its future students.
'89 Mock Trial Team
3rd In USA

Cherry Hill High School East's Mock Trial Team returned home proud of another first in school history! The Mock Trial Team finished third in the National Mock Trial Championships held in Kentucky. The four day Championship Competition, involving thirty other state champions culminated on May 14, 1989. East's team, with a record of nine wins and no losses, captured the New Jersey State Title, then faced opponents from Illinois, Missouri, Wisconsin, and Georgia. The team garnered the most points (including Todd Schoenhau's series of perfect ten's for his performance as a witness) among the competing teams. However, because the number of wins held precedence over the total points, where East had a record of three wins and one loss, the team was ineligible to compete in the championship round. The only loss came during the tie with the Wisconsin team when the presiding judge voted in favor of Wisconsin.

Preparations for the competition began in December for the county and state level competitions. With the assistance of adviser Mr. Ronald Hillman and three lawyer coaches; Mr. Katz, Mr. DeMichele, and Mr. Shipley, the Team prepared the case for the State Championship and the National Championship by spending two to three hours a day polishing their talents.

The Team's success in the National Competition sets a goal for the future Mock Trial Teams to reach and possibly surpass.

The Science League provides interested students the opportunity to compete with other science students throughout the state. From January to April, the teams take tests for the New Jersey Science League competition. The high schools then receive a ranking according to their performances on the examinations in Biology, Chemistry, and Physics.

Biology Students take a test at the beginning of the year in order to try out for the Biology I or the Biology II teams. Those currently taking the Biology I course take the exam for that level. The Biology II team consists of students enrolled in the second year Biology honors program.

Similarly, Chemistry I and Physics I students participate on the Chemistry I and Physics I teams, respectively. They compete with the second year teams, Chemistry II and Physics II.

Our school’s science teams have consistently performed well in all of the examinations. This is a result of the student and teacher interaction found in the Science Leagues.

Photography Aides

The girls that are Photo Aides perform a very valuable service to the photography classes. They are in a special homeroom, whose sole obligation is to prepare the darkroom and the two photography classrooms for the 300 plus students that use it daily. Their job is to prepare chemicals and fill all the containers, set up the darkroom trays in preparation for the classes, collect the prints from the previous day's work, assemble the processing materials needed, and assist the three photography instructors with housekeeping chores that keep the photo lab clean and workable.

In addition to the classes which use the facilities, there is a photo club which meets Tuesday afternoons solely for the enjoyment of students wishing to learn darkroom processing techniques and to enable those enrolled in the program to get some extra time to work on classroom assignments or extra work of their own. At the time of preparation of this page, the Photography Club was in the darkroom and could not be disturbed.

Lauren Goldberg seems pleased with the results of her contact sheet.

The Interact Club is an organization of students dedicated to serving their community. Organized last year, the club has had several fundraisers to help various charitable organizations. Students held a car wash to raise money for the American Cancer Society. Later, they sold pretzels to help other organizations.

Moreover, the club has visited nursing homes and orphanages during holidays and other times too. Members dressed up in colorful costumes visited an orphanage during Halloween. Needless to say, the children were delighted with the visiting witches, clowns, and ghosts.

The Interact Club went to Care Inn, a nearby nursing home to sing carols for Christmas. They spent the afternoon with the residents singing and sharing holiday greetings.

The Interact Club exemplifies the sharing of good times, mixed with the caring and concerns of people helping people.
This year, something unusual, exciting, and exhilarating returned. Orchesis began in January with nearly fifty participants. Every week, the students met in the Dance Gym to practice new techniques and movements in jazz and modern dance. Ms. Mary Beth Quinlan led these dance workshops, assisted by charter members Ronit Mitzner, Jason Friedman, Mindy Weiss, Brett Winn, and Marni Scarloff. The dancers were beginning, intermediate, and advanced levels. Ronit Mitzner, who has been dancing for several years, commented, "We've waited a long time to see Orchesis return and we're having so much fun!"

Film Makers Workshop

"Lights! Camera! Action!" The students of the Film Makers Workshop produced their first film project this year, "Final Project!" Under the direction of adviser Mr. Sheldon Zeff, student actors participated in all aspects of the production. They filmed, edited, and produced the story in less time than a conventional feature film. During the entire process, the participants gained a greater understanding of the production of films, videos, commercials, and television shows. First hand they experienced the trials and tribulations of film making. Finally, after completing production, the students proudly housed a special showing of "Final Project" to a very impressed audience.

PERFORMING ARTS 215
Eastside, our student-run newspaper, was very impressive with a top ten percent finish in the International Scroll and Quill Association Competition. The contest, open to contestants worldwide, judged each entry upon exacting criteria and our school paper finished very respectably.

The Cherry Hill East Teacher’s Banquet, held by the Youth Society, delighted the taste buds of faculty and staff with a feast composed of food from Far East Asia.

Our Science Department was recognized as one of the best among other high schools in New Jersey. East’s Science League Teams have performed brilliantly during every contest.

The International Thespian Society sponsored the Performing Arts Company performance of “Little Shop of Horrors” in the Bahamas on Memorial Day weekend.

The 1988-1989 Mock Trial Team returned home proudly displaying a third place finish at the National High School Championship held in Kentucky.

On February 27, 1990 the foreign language clubs held their annual International Banquet in honor of the French exchange students. It was a culture-filled night of dinner, music, and entertainment.

The Chess Team participated in the national championship and came in tenth in 1989. It was their fifth straight win in the nationals.

The 1989 Eidolon won one of the fifteen first place awards in the nation from American Scholastic Press Association, receiving a perfect score for design. East was also awarded a national second place from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.
The “time-lapse” photography is the work of Mr. Robert Yellen, Lorstan-Thomas Photography Studios the official photographer for the 1990 Eidolon. Our subjects are Jarod Gilman and Jennifer Baker.
On The Wings Of Glory
All-Purpose Cheer

They are always on the front line at games and special events, shouting and chanting encouragement. These bright, exuberant girls work hard for months practicing the movements and formations that go with the vocal cheers. Their practice sessions are demanding and exhausting. The girls work toward timing that must be exact, rhythm that flows in perfect cadence. As they raise their arms, our hearts soar with them for they too continue the tradition of pride, spirit and excellence.

Stickin’ It To ’Em!

For these girls, field hockey is not just a fun activity, but a serious sport. Each team member commits herself to the rigid practices that are held everyday after school. Because of the desire and commitment shown by these girls, they came in third place at the Olympic American Conference and remained undefeated throughout most of the season. In addition, two seniors, Jenifer Auty and Dara Less, made the All-Conference first team while Tara Owens, a sophomore, earned a spot on the All-Conference second team. Yet, as is the case with most teams, the success encountered did not arise because of a few talented players, but rather from a unified team effort. As Miss Schooley states, “Our success is attributed to the fact that we have experienced senior leadership combined with a group of eager young players who make our team strong.”

The 1989 varsity football team has a tough task on its hand. To be successful, it must put together a season with some semblance of last year's championship one. However, with twenty-one starters lost due to graduation, this task will not be easy. Fortunately, with a talented crop of juniors and underclassmen, as well as the returning seniors, the football team is well on its way. Under the leadership of coach Bo Wood, the team should have another steady season.

Coach Wood will greatly miss key players Glenn Foley, Brian Kurlej, and Steve Lobel. However, sophomore Kevin Foley will do his best to keep this team on the right track and continue his family legacy. Although a loss to highly ranked Pennsauken, East's first game was a fairly impressive showing. A steady defensive performance had preserved a shutout until Pennsauken stole a 14-7 victory in the final minutes. So with realistic goals and an optimistic outlook, the football team should be successful once again.

Excitement In The Air

Both the girls' and boys' gymnastics teams have an exciting group of athletes. Coached by Doreen Bennet, the girls' team is led by senior captains Stephanie Harrison and Lynn Harrelson. Harrison, a state qualifier, says that she is looking forward to leading the team to a winning season. With the aid of junior Melinda Renshaw and freshman Beth Morowitz, this well-rounded team should have a successful season.

Coached by Lou Frank, the boys' team boasts four seniors, who also happen to be the captains. They are Alex Alon, Jeff Gross, Jason Schaeffer, and Rob Spitz. With junior Ari Goldstein, the team hopes to develop into a formidable force. Among the other gymnasts are sophomores Alfred Alon and David Lean, who have the talent to bring major success to the team. The team has already started impressively, placing second out of eight teams in the annual Devil's Classic event, the first meet of the gymnastics season.

Nets Winning Results!

With the addition of an experienced coach, the varsity boys' soccer team expects to have an excellent season. Mr. Karl Moehlmann has recently come over to coach the team after a four-year stint with Villanova as an assistant coach. Originally from Germany, Moehlmann should introduce a European style to blend in with the existing one. Hopefully, he can add a scoring punch which the team collectively feels is lacking.

Furthermore, the team consists of many returning seniors who should provide experience and leadership to the younger players. Among these seniors are goalie Brian Downey, sweeper Ping Li, forward Mike Morowitz, and fullback Glenn Adler. In addition, juniors Tony Shaw, Rob Grolnick, and Seth Silverstein helped the team to a 1-0 win in its first game against Cinnaminson. These players are the nucleus of a team that is surrounded by a supporting cast which ranks among the best in South Jersey.

With 2.14 left in the fourth quarter, senior Sandy Marut headed the ball into the goal off a perfect corner kick from Meg Kinney. The next moment, the entire East team and its coaches were jumping in the air, delirious with joy. That goal forced number 1 ranked Cinnaminson to share the South Jersey Soccer Coaches Association girl's championship with defending winners, Cherry Hill East. The tie not only was a defeat for the heavily favored Cinnaminson team, but also an indication of the character of East's girls.

This year's team possessed tremendous character. The seniors showed great leadership throughout the season to the younger members of the squad. No matter what the final score was, these seniors never let up. The second Shawnee game was a prime example of this fighting desire to win. On a Friday, Shawnee knocked East out of the state tournament. The following day, the Cougars gained revenge, beating Shawnee 1-0 in an intense game.

Overall, East had a successful season, finishing 13-3-2, winning their conference with a 1-0 pouncing of Paul VI. The long history of accomplishment by the girl's soccer team, no doubt provides each team with a motivation unique to East. To be sure, this year's squad followed admirably in those footsteps of glory.
A Winning Approach

The Girls' Tennis Team had another smashing season this year. Coached by Dave Cole and Ralph Ipri, the girls perfected their games enroute to a 13-1 record in regular season play. After a series of stunning victories in post season play, these girls defeated Millville to reach the state finals. At the tournament, they garnered the title of Group IV Conference State Champions.

Most definitely, the senior leadership of Archana Panda and Michelle Silverstein combined with the talent of underclassmen Jamie Green, Stephanie Waitz, Jen Hicks, Dara Plasky, and Karen Heyt led to a perfectly balanced squad. One can only hope that next year's team (fueled by a return of five starters) will be able to follow in the footsteps of these gifted athletes.

In today's world of athletic awareness, there's a place where hard work and dedication are highly valued. In the main gym after school, our boys' basketball team can be seen practicing drill after drill. This year's squad hoped to rebound from the record of 9 wins and 17 losses of last year. Through all the adversity which had befallen the team, the team members managed to stay focused on their goal of a winning season. Aside from seniors Glen Adler and Tim McKee, and sophomore Erik Henry, the squad consisted mainly of inexperienced talent. Head coach John Valore expected the young team to make mistakes, but also hoped that the players would grow in their understanding of the game plans. Due to the lack of height on the team, Valore had to alter his coaching philosophy. Instead of employing an up tempo offense, as in the past, the team attempted to utilize a conservative ball control approach, reminiscent of the strategy applied by the likes of Bobby Knight and Dean Smith. Like those college programs, the boys' team has brought a sense of renewed pride to the halls of East.

The girls' and boys' swimming teams have really made a splash at East over the past few years. This year was no different. To become a member of the team, the would-be athlete must first pass a time trial. After a subsequent qualification, he or she is subject to rigorous and demanding training. The team practices every day at the CYO in Blackwood because, contrary to freshman belief, East does not have a pool. Such tiring but imperative practices have molded the team into consistent winners. Aside from competition in league meets, the team members also take part in special tournaments such as the South Sectional Meet and the annual state relays. Team captains Jen Auty, Deidre Lynch, Carolyn Martus, and Kristin Kisselbach for the girls' and Matt Meier and John Arcaroli for the boys' help provide leadership on their respective squads.

At the end of each long day, the wet and weary swimmers board the bus for the daily ride back to the hallowed halls of Cherry Hill East. Arriving to darkened skies and yellow late buses, the members fulfill every expectation of the student-athlete. Such dedication and perseverance has helped make the East Swimming Teams the cream of the crop.

Cougar Team Steals

Every season, many teams face the task of living up to the reputation of the prior season's ball club. East is no different. Last year, the baseball team compiled a record of 21 wins, 3 losses, and 1 tie. Throughout the season, East held steady as the number two ranked team in South Jersey. The team reached the state semi-finals, where they battled to an unfortunate 9-3 loss at the hand of Pemberton. Trying to follow in the footsteps of such an impressive record would sound almost impossible to most high schools.

Yet, this year's squad has every intention of surpassing last year's accomplishments. According to Coach Dave Martin, the nucleus of the team revolves around its pitching staff. With key returning players Kevin Foley, Mitch Toren, and Mark Krowiak, the pitching should prove to be highly competitive. Perhaps the greatest asset this team possesses is speed. Highly skilled at getting on base, East's players have the uncanny ability to steal bases in order to advance into scoring position. Featuring such an explosive lineup, the Cougars have the potential of an offensive explosion every game. With the return of Mike Ellis, Steve Lang, Matt Zeberlein, and Steve Young, all of whom batted above .300, Cougars baseball has the talent to recapture the glory of last year.

So, who said Golf is a finesse sport enjoyed only by senior citizens in Arizona and Florida. Battling against Mother Nature’s tirade, our golf team ventured into the snow to display their undaunting courage. Hey! Football players aren’t the only people who play rain or shine. Our golf team strives for excellence each and every time it steps off the bus (No, limos are not provided) to compete at area courses. Whether that pursuit requires playing a few holes in temperatures less than 60°F, our guys (and girl) always “pick up the gauntlet.” Their version of the sport deviates far from the leisure time activity intended to pass time. Get down and dirty! But, guys (and girl), couldn’t you have waited until springtime to prove your point?

Tennis Team Serves Up An Ace Of A Season

No single word can describe the success of our boys tennis team. In making a big leap from #4 to #1 in the state, East became the first South Jersey team to rise to the top of the rankings. As in all great achievements, work played a major role. Coached by Ralph Ipri, the team practiced diligently after school, with some of the players putting in extra hours at the local club. Coach Ipri attributed balance as another reason for the outstanding season. With some of the hardest competition arriving in intra-squad match play, the starters were well tested before every outing. Such a combined effort resulted in the team remaining undefeated throughout most of the season, the highlight coming at the Newark Academy Invitational Tournament. At Newark, East beat Livingston High School 4-1, becoming the only South Jersey school to ever win the event. This year’s team should prove just as strong, with starters Jason Lichterman, Larry Meltzer, and Steve Gola along with a score of talented backups, returning. A state title seems well within reach if all goes as expected.

Janice - Faces in Precalc. I'm not a schmo! You brute! Spanish-4 yrs! -Cindy Slowpoke - sorry for the inconveniences. Thanks for all your help! -Speedy

Peely: We survived 'rettes, Humanities, & applications! Let's party! -Jan

Mar: the shore, the green thing, eggrolls & movies, prom dress shopping, Cooki, Thumper, elem. mol., spec. & all the good times! Love, Jam

Peely, Chip & Dale, next time we take a pirate pic, I want the gun! -Jam

Domingo, hay nadie que me guste mas que tu! Thank u4 being a friend! -Jan

Hey cutey! Moonlit rendezvous, Philly, fine dining etiquette at 4seasons, all-nighters, "under the sea" and all the best times! Love Moose

Janice, Dave, & David: It was only a few drops of water! -Sandy

David - When the sun rises, that's a bad sign. I've had some great memories tho! Love, Sandy

Dave: And to think, we owe "Rrring, rrring??" to Jay Bu. Love, Sandy

To the Orchestra lunch table, 5th pd Calc & 8th pd Eng: Thanks for eating my lunch! -Sandy

Meg-dona nobis pacem stepsister; the lion; Antarctica; it was awesome; Zorro; don't forget your famous egg trick; all night talks; no socks I like it

Brandi - you're a mean rotten father ... yup, that's about the size of it; remember Kenny, Easter eggs and splatter painting.

Jen - How's Corky? What are we? What are we?

Lisa - The giant football! ... When you're in school ... yuck-orama; blahblah

Sandra Wu-Wu, David, Dave: How about toothpaste instead of mousse next time? Let's play Pictionary-crabbing, going rafting (splash! splash!) -Janice Art & Byung: you studs! Thanks for chauffering me everywhere! -Janice

Bok Sung Jen: "There is no past as long as memories last" - Somebody Peely, Dan & Dave: January 4 & 5-let's do a map project!

Satty: trading parents, asparagus, prom dress shopping. Confusion; Janice, Dave, & Dan: let's feed some ducks; Janice: our adventures in the pool; Dave: thanks for always taking the blame; Grace: stop dreaming about muscles; Cindy: yes, so you better not be; Archana & Shera: postcards & roastbeef; Art: cows are peaceful; David: do you still have the amoeba? Alan: what am I going to do in Calc next year without you sleeping beside me; Todd: when you find Moby ask him what the book is about; Byung: keep off the roads; Love, Patty Dave - Behind Loopy and the Excellent Adventure will always be our secret world of basement hockey, Columbia bashing, and you're a Quayle. I'm glad that your evil twin brother - that Wharton-aspiring, gel-slacking, Perrier-drinking guy I once did QPS labs with - has died. Unfortunately he's been replaced by Mario Andretti. Well ... four more years.

Dan - Sorry about teasing you about Little League and forcing you to go to concerts, but I think you now know what my intentions were. I still want an application. If ignorance is bliss, then you're absolutely Elysian - but that's good. Trust me - you will find your mango tree.

Betsy, you are my sunshine when the skies are gray. Thinking of you, Art.

Janice - I've been wrong all along ... men's extra-large fits you just right. Always remember that Danny loves you. Love, Art.

Steve, I must say - you are THE studliest choir boy I've ever met. -Art

To the Chip & Dip Clan - you are the greatest! Thanks for all.-Love, Dara

Fleur, Hobie, Bobine-Barclay Crew-thanx for everything-I love you! Dara

Pat Bergen - I am on your side, silly! I love you! Martha

Patty I'm sorry you got Avery Craven. It must have been my fault, Dave

Sandy, when it's dark, just smile and do the Jim Om dance. -Dave

Janice, I know things like this make me sick but in a case like this I'll get away with it. It was definitely something. Somebody. I'll never forget: hips, coffee, our summer, The Little Mermaid, and love. -Dave

Art, it has been a most excellent adventure; QPS, car accidents, Andover, oh Fozy, and leg cramps. -Dave

Dan, don't let Sioux ride the truck too much. Praise Paula. -Dave

To LAUREN SUZANNE,

Dad and I just thought we'd write
A little poem for you,
You're everything that we could hope for
You are just a dream come true.

These past four years, we've watched you grow
Our hearts are filled with pride,
With all you have to offer the world
Your progress cannot be denied.

So with this little rhyme we'll say
Best wishes forever more,
And may you find much happiness
At life's wide-open door.

We love you so!

Whenever I need a friend
You always seem to be there.
You help me with my problems
And our joys together we share.
I can't imagine life
Without a friend like you.
Once we get together
We are the indivisible two.
All the fun we've shared
Can never be replaced
Together we've had many good times
And conquered the problems
we've had to face.
So I want you to know
That I'm always here,
If you ever need me
To make your thoughts clear.

Best Friends

Congratulations and
Good Luck
to GREG
and the
CLASS OF 1990.

I'll be your shoulder to cry on
I'll be your friend to rely on

When the whole world is gone
You won't be alone, 'cause I'll be there.

Winter Spring Summer or Fall
All you have to do is call and I'll be there
When you call out my name and you know wherever I am
I'll come running . . .
You've got a friend.

Thru the years
You never let me down
you turned my life around the sweetest days I've found
I've found in you through the years.
